"Y" Drive Is Off to Flying Start With $4,275 in Pledges

Hands on the Big Clock in Front of Building on Broadway Start Moving Toward the Goal of $15,000—Workers Enthusiastic at First Report Meeting Held Tuesday Night.

The stirring days of 1911 were recalled at the first report meeting of the workers in the present Y. M. C. A. drive to raise $15,000 held in the big gym Tuesday evening when a total of 216 pledges amounting to $4,275 was announced as the roll of the various teams was called. The 1911 campaign was to raise $75,000 to erect the fine building on Broadway while the present campaign is to raise money enough to carry on the operation of the big plant for this year.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. Clarance E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, who took as his theme the letters "Y. M. C. A.—You Must Come Across", and delivered a stirring appeal for the success of the campaign. The money can be raised, and it will be raised, he said.

Harry H. Flemming, general chairman who had charge of the 1911 drive, and is serving in the same capacity this year, appealed to the public to raise their sight as this was not a cash collection campaign but a one year pledge covering the 12-months budget on an easy four-payment plan.

Recalling again the 1911 campaign when a huge clock hung on the outside of the old hotel which stood on the site of the present building, there is another huge clock erected with the hands pointing to the amount pledged each day.

Judging from the enthusiasm that reigned during the meeting Tuesday night the campaign promises to go across with a resounding bang, and another good report will be submitted at the meeting tonight at 6:26 o'clock in the gym.

The high division Tuesday night was the Wizards led by Jim Scott and Wilson Ingalls, who were awarded the silk flag for the largest amount pledged, $321.

The attendance honor, a blue star flag, went to the Gym Peppers, led by Chet Baltz and Frank Walter.

The team honors for the most pledges went to Team No. 6, led by Harry Rieman, who was awarded the hot-footer pennant.

The winning team pennant went to the team headed by Edward Lacey, while individual honors went to Sam Peyer of Team No. 2, who was awarded the Spizzerink for having obtained the most pledges.

The reports of the teams follows:

Martin Gets 6 Months For Beating Daughter

Joseph Martin, 40, of Esopus, was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Molyneaux and Troopers Metzger and Soules and lodged in the Ulster county jail. He was to have a hearing today before Justice H. E. McKenzie on a charge of assault in the third degree. Martin, who according to the officers completed serving a term in Leavenworth prison last November and has also served time in Pennsylvania, was arrested on complaint of his wife. He was charged with being abusive and particularly with having beaten his five-year-old girl with a strap.

Martin was arraigned before Justice McKenzie this morning and was given a sentence of 180 days in the Ulster county jail in addition to a fine of $50.

Arrested As Head of Powerful Drug Ring

Frank Ward, 28, an orchestra leader who played at Harry Western's roadhouse at Lake Katrine four years ago, about the time of the latter's mysterious disappearance, was arrested Tuesday by federal agents as the head of a powerful drug ring.

Ward was arrested following a raid on apartments at 220 W. 62d street, New York. Three negroes were held as his aides. The prisoners were held in bail of $7,500 each following arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Cotter.

Water High In Canal

Little Falls, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—Water in the Barge canal was so high today that guard gates were put down to protect Lock 16. The water dropped one inch during the night. One tug has passed through the canal since its opening this week.

Presbytery Elects Delegates And Hears Reports of Work

Closing Session Devoted to Receiving Reports on Various Activities of the Church at Home and Abroad Which Showed Excellent Work Accomplished During Past Year—Representatives to General Assembly.

Reports showing the varied activities of the Presbyterian Church, both at home and abroad, and the selection of two ministers and two laymen to represent it at the General Assembly this year marked the closing session of the Presbytery of North River in the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon. The June meeting will likely be held in Poughkeepsie, while the October meeting is to be held at the Military Academy at Cornwall. The question of changing the hour of convening the October session precipitated a lively debate on the floor of the Presbytery and resulted in Presbytery voting to meeting at the usual hour, 10 o'clock in the morning.

When Presbytery convened for the closing session the work of selecting commissioners to the General Assembly was taken up and the Rev. Arthur James of Smithfield and the Rev. James McIntosh Eckard of Pleasant Plains were selected as the two ministers to represent Presbytery, and Woodson M. Boyle of Newburgh and Dr. Harry P. Van Wagenen of Kingston were chosen as the two laymen. The two alternates of the ministers were the Rev. William C. Swartz of Pleasant Valley and the Rev. Edward Dickerson of Millerton. The laymen alternate selected was Dr. Brown of Poughkeepsie.

Field Activities

The Rev. Mr. Steele, chairman of the committee on field activities, reported that with no outside aid to stimulate the work of the churches in the Presbytery the past year there had only been a slight falling off in the gifts to benevolences in spite of the depression while congregational gifts had increased $1,000 over the preceding year. That more interest was being shown in church work was shown by the fact that during the past year 250 people had been admitted to the churches on confession of faith as against 123 persons the preceding year. Mr. Steele said the Presbytery had reason to feel grateful for the work that the churches were doing. He recommended that another conference, similar to that of last year be held, and his recommendation was adopted and $100 appropriated for conference expenses.

Without a Deficit

The Rev. James N. Armstrong, pastor of the entertaining church, and chairman of the committee on national missions, reported that national missions had closed the year without a deficit. He said that no church in the Presbytery was receiving any financial aid from national missions. He also spoke briefly on the question of stabilizing ministers' salaries.

During the discussion it was brought out that Presbytery some years ago decided that the minimum salary for a minister should be $1,200 a year for a single man and $1,500 a year for a married man.

Complete Program for K. of C. Charity Ball

Which Will Be Presented Friday at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium—Additional Patrons announced.

The entire entertainment program to be given at the 15th annual charity ball of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, next Friday evening, was announced today by J. David Schenck, who has been devoting the past two weeks to an endeavor to line up the very best entertainment obtainable. The completed program follows:

Dorothy and Billy Rose, a late feature of Earl Carroll's Vanities, in a unique rendition of spectacular speed and cleverness.

The Three Waltons, the "happy inebriates" from Casino de Paris, who of late have had all Broadway laughing. They are guaranteed to provide an avalanche of fun and merriment.

Dell O'Dell, regarded as the "Queen of Nuts" and the funniest comedienne on the stage, and who recently completed a long engagement at the Palladium Theatre in London, England.

Mack Murray, the surprising humorist and gastronomical comedian from the Paramount Picture Studios.

Grant & Rosalie, novelty ballroom dancers.

Charles Carrer, the famed Swiss juggler.

Four numbers by pupils from the Helen T. Cashin School of Dancing.

Last, but far from least on the splendid program, are The Baby Whirlwinds, in a special feature. These new stars on the entertainment horizon, it is said, will amaze and delight the spectators with a smartness that has been surprising the most blase ball room audiences of the metropolis.

Following are additional patrons: Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Barrett, John H. Beatty and Family, the Rev. Francis P. Borowski, Catholic Daughters of America, Derrenbacher Sales Company, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Disch, Everett & Treadwell, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Faye, Governor Clinton Cleaner & Tailor, Daniel Healy, Mayor and Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman, Herzog Hardware & Paint Company, Inc., the Hon. Roscoe Irwin, Kingston House of Flowers, Kingston Laundry, Kingston Paid Firemen's Association, Kingston Paint & Glass Company, D. N. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. McCann, Edward T. McGill, Montgomery Ward & Company, Dennis J. Murphy, Thomas J. O'Hara, Dr. and Mrs. Mark O' Meara, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scholl, John D. Schoonmaker, Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, Louis Schwartz, Francis J. Sheridan, Dr. E. F. Sibley, Stuyvesant Hotel, Up-to-Date Company, Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. Florian P. Wingert.

Pays Fine and Is Discharged

Wilbur D. Van Wyck of Wallkill was arraigned before Justice William E. Carr Tuesday on a charge of petit larceny and was committed to the Ulster county jail for 15 days in default of a fine of $15. Later he paid the fine and was discharged. Van Wyck was charged with having given a check for apples, in the amount of $17.50, which was returned unpaid for lack of funds.

DAR Hears Patriotic Speech by Dr. Healy

Assistant Dean of Georgetown University Raps Dr. Nicholas M. Butler—Sees Grave Dangers Lurking in Far East.

Washington, April 18 (AP).—The Daughters of the American Revolution, assembled in annual congress, heard an educator assert today that America had "passed from the post-war era to a new pre-war era."

Dr. Thomas Healy, assistant dean of Georgetown University's Foreign Service School, made this statement in an address hitting repeatedly at Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, as a poor prophet on war.

He quoted Dr. Butler as saying four months after the World War started that there was no sanity in "useless armaments against nobody," and saying more recently that some "have not heard Napoleon and Bismark are dead."

"The ignorance of the American people," Dr. Healy said, "is not so abysmal they are not aware of the fact Napoleon and Bismark have been replaced by modern and possibly more dangerous counterparts in Hitler, Stalin, and a host of other military dictators who at this moment are ruling a large portion of the world. Unlike Napoleon and Bismark, the Nazilism of Hitler and Communism of Stalin have reached over into the very heart of America in an attempt to undermine the structure of our government."

He pronounced the Far Eastern situation "at least as dangerous as the European situation," with Russia and Japan both "feverishly preparing for war," and almost ready to "fly at each other's throats."

Verdict of $138.66 in Favor of Plaintiff

In Action Brought By Elna Stangel Against Raymond and Asa S. Gray of Spring Glen.

The trial of the action brought by Elna Stangel against Raymond and Asa S. Gray of Spring Glen, begun in county court Monday afternoon was completed and the case given to the jury Tuesday afternoon. The jury after a short deliberation returned with a verdict of $138.66 in favor of the plaintiff. Court then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

The action was an appeal from the decision of a justice's court in the town of Wawarsing and involved a dispute concerning the age of a Plymouth car purchased by plaintiff and which she claims was represented to be a 1931 model, but which was really a 1930 model. Defendant claimed that the car was a 1931 model.

John A. Bonomi represented the plaintiff in the action, LeRoy Lounsberry appearing for the defendants.

Ambulance Calls Here

Tuesday evening Vincent Schoonmaker of 57 Liberty street fell and broke his kneecap. He was removed to the Kingston Hospital in the ambulance. Other ambulance calls were Marian Watkins from 35 Sycamore street to the Kingston Hospital; Robert Rhinehart of 99 Hasbrouck avenue to the Kingston Hospital, and John Berardo from the Kingston Hospital to 720 Broadway.

Trotzky Dictator Plot To Control France Is Disclosed Today

Former Red Leader Had Plans to Use February Riots—Would Have Used "Armed Workers Militia"—Days of Grace for Exile.

Paris, April 18 (AP).—A sensational plot by Leon Trotzky to use the February riots to set up his own dictatorship in France by a Red revolution was revealed in his party organ, authorities disclosed today.

A revolution by "an armed workers' militia" was urged, they said, in a manifesto issued by the exiled former Russian leader after the fatal rioting in the streets of Paris on February 6.

"The two forces have just measured swords," the manifesto said.

"War has begun between them. There is no possible peace, but in a fight to the death. In the street, by force, will be decided the future."

The manifesto urged "a vast workers' alliance of all proletarian bodies and the organization of a workers' militia without delay."

As a result of the new disclosures of the political activity of Trotzky, the government was expected to speed its moves for his expulsion, ordered yesterday.

Hudson Street To Have Sewer; Works Divison Project

For years the question of building a sanitary sewer in Hudson street has been brought to the attention of city authorities but owing to the excessive cost to property owners the sewer was never built. On Monday, however, the work of constructing a sewer was taken up as a World Division project, and today about 75 men are employed. The sewer will be constructed from West Pierpont street to the Rondout creek, and work has been started on the creek-end.

THREE NEGROES INJURED AS THEIR AUTO STRUCK A TREE

Three negroes, out for a ride in a 1927 roadster for which license plates had been procured the day before, were injured seriously Monday night when the vehicle left the highway at Middle Hope, tore up more than 100 feet of stout wire fence and struck a tree. All were brought by ambulance to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. They were Charles Zoyd of Milton, who was believed dying from skull fracture; David Hargrave, also of Milton, who sustained deep scalp wounds, a fracture of the left arm and a skull injury, and Rente Jacobs, nineteen, of Marlborough, who owned and drove the roadster. Jacobs likewise suffered a severe skull injury in addition to several rib fractures and major lacerations.

EARLY MORNING FIRE IN WASHINGTON AVENUE HOUSE

An early morning fire in the cellar of the four-family apartment house at 256 Washington avenue called out the fire department at 7:58 o'clock. The cellar was used as an auto supply storage by Joseph Sobsey and the fire started in rubbish near the heater. The fire filled the house with heavy smoke and Mrs. Sherwood Wells, one of the tenants, who is ill, was carried out of the house by firemen to the home of neighbors. There was considerable smoke damage in the building and damage by fire in the cellar before it was brought under control.

Two Jurors Selected This Morning in Case Of Cohen and Rand

Defendants Are Being Tried Under An Indictment Charging Assault In The Second Degree—Judson L. Haynes and Valentine Fussick Selected.

Selecting of a jury in the case of The People against George and Peter Cohen and Max Rand of Ellenville began in County Court before Judge F. G. Traver shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, after court had recessed for an hour to await the arrival of Daniel H. Prior, attorney for the defendants.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and Assistant LeVan Haver are appearing for the people.

The defendants are being tried under an indictment charging assault in the second degree. There are three counts to the indictment and attorney for the defendants moved that the district attorney determine on which count he elected to try the case. Mr. Murray held that he was not obliged to make any such choice and was upheld by the court.

When court adjourned at 12:30 for the noon recess two jurors had been accepted out of six examined. The two acceptable to both parties were Judson L. Haynes of the town of Ulster and Valentine Fussick of Saugerties.

The case arose out of an attack on George R. Van Aken of Ellenville, special constable for the town of Wawarsing, in August of last year. Van Aken had been commissioned by Justice John P. Bonomi to seize certain slot machines. Accompanied by William McNally he went to Greenfield and seized two machines. Returning to Ellenville late in the evening he parked his car containing the two seized machines on South Main street and with McNally awaited the return to Ellenville of Justice Bonomi. While so waiting Van Aken was attacked and badly beaten up and the machines taken from him. Subsequently the defendants in the present action were arrested, charged with being implicated in the assault and later were indicted by the grand jury. They have since been out on bail.

Injuries Are Fatal To Alfred Swinevick

Boy Died In Hospital This Morning From Injuries Received In Accident In Which His Schoolmate Was Killed.

Alfred Swinevick, 11 year old boy who was brought to the Benedictine Hospital Tuesday afternoon following injuries received when the bicycle on which he and Burton Kelder were riding was struck by an automobile at Samsonvile, died at the hospital at 7:20 this morning.

The two boys were on their way to school in Samsonville at the time of the accident, about 8:20 Tuesday morning, Swinevick riding behind Kelder on the latter's wheel. The bicycle was struck by a car driven by Clara Margaret Wynkoop of Kerhonkson, who was on her way to The Vly, where she teaches school. The Kelder boy died within a few minutes after the accident. His companion was brought to the Benedictine where Dr. Bush found that he was suffering from a compound fracture of the skull.

Union Hose Truck Bought by Board

The board of fire commissioners Tuesday evening opened bids for the purchase of a fire truck for Union Hose Company, and awarded the contract to Charles Doty of Albany avenue, local representative of the Sanford concern who manufacture fire trucks. The truck was bought for slightly less than $2,300, which was the amount appropriated for the purchase. It will be equipped with a booster tank and pump, and is similar to the truck installed in Cordts Hose. It is expected the new truck will be ready for delivery about the first of June.

Loughran Ouster Hearing Is Continued, Night Meetings Looming To Conclude Action

Crowd Dwindles as Supervisors Settle Down to Hear Mass of Detail Testimony in Action To Oust County Highway Superintendent Loughran—May Hold Night Sessions To Hurry Conclusion of Proceedings.

Interest in the ousting proceedings before the board of supervisors seemed to lag today as the matter dragged on amid much detail. The audience was much smaller than on the opening day. The members of the board frequently strolled out to get the air and there were much less objection on the part of counsel and fewer roll-calls taken. Apparently the members of the board are digging themselves in for a long tedious proceeding.

Prospects of night session are looming on the horizon. County Attorney Ewig stated that there was some talk of starting evening sessions beginning Thursday night to speed on the proceeding.

Edwin Sheeley of Wallkill was the first witness called this morning. He had been examined at some length Tuesday and was recalled. Supervisor Armater was absent when the roll was called. All other supervisors were in their places.

Mr. Sheeley was cross-examined by Mr. Flemming. He said the old State Camp bridge in Denning had been washed out in 1928 by a flood and he was sent there in 1929 to build a new bridge. He went to the bridge after completing the Van Etten bridge on the Rondout. He went to the State Camp bridge in September or October of 1929. Before the Van Etten bridge he had worked on the bridge known as the Dean bridge a couple of miles up stream in Denning and prior to that he had worked on a shovel job in Shokan and also in the town of Shawangunk. They started the Denning bridge work in the early spring as soon as weather permitted and discontinued work on November 15, 1929, when bad weather set in.

The witness testified that he did not know who was doing the Hogeberg hill job in Shawangunk, whether it was a county or town job, but he thought a town job although he had been sent there to do shovel work by the county. When the shovel work was done he left. He had not worked on the Bloomington-Creek Locks road, or the Upper Grand Street or Hollow Road. The various jobs he had were inquired innto to determine the time and place of certain alleged conversations with Mr. Loughran in regard to doing work in Denning and Shawangunk and also as to alleged conversations about election of Republican supervisors in those towns.

Sheeley said he had worked until January, 1930, for the county highway department and then took another position. He did snow removal work in January, 1930, in Shawangunk.

In May, 1930, he said the State Camp bridge in Denning was not completed.

While at work on the Denning bridges he said he had lived at Sundown in Denning and moved from there to Wallkill in 1930. Since then he had worked in New Jersey and now works at a garage. Last winter he said he had been foreman on a stone fill job in Shawangunk under CWA.

Visited Bridges Often.

It was Mr. Loughran's custom to visit bridge jobs frequently but the witness recalled only one visit to the Hogeberg hill job in Shawangunk. It was on that visit that the alleged conversation about electing a Republican supervisor in Denning was spoken of.

That fall Mr. Sheeley said he lived in Denning and was a candidate for town superintendent of highways in the town. He frequently talked politics that fall and there was a particular reason for him doing so as he was running for office.

He said he had not discussed the present proceeding with Supervisor McDowell from Wawarsing. He heard there was a resolution calling for Mr. Loughran's resignation before the board and he later talked of the matter with Mr. Ewig.

Questioned by Mr. Ewig the witness said he had worked on the Dean bridge in Denning. It was located near the Ter Bush property. That bridge was over an unnamed stream about a half mile from the Ter Bush place. Ter Bush property is on the Rondout he said. The Dean bridge he said was some distance from the Rondout creek on the smaller stream.

While working on the Dean bridge he said he had also done work on the Ter Bush property. Ter Bush asked him to do some work on a docking along the creek. He spoke to Mr. Loughran and Mr. Loughran asked how long it would take to do the work and he said about 10 or 12 hours. That was after Ter Bush asked how much it would cost to repair the docking on the Rondout near his residence.

After the talk with Mr. Loughran he said he did the work at Mr. Loughran's direction. he did not know what arrangements Mr. Loughran and Ter Bush made.

The work consisted of about 10 or 12 hours work with a shovel removing the stone and earth from the

VEHICLE TO STOP WHEN IT MEETS HALTED SCHOOL BUS

Albany, N. Y., April 18 (AP). Governor Lehman today signed a bill requiring vehicles must come to a complete stop and then proceed with caution, when meeting a school omnibus which has halted to receive or discharge passengers. It was sponsored by Assemblyman J. Austin Otto, Steuben county Republican.

Injunctions Are Asked To Restrain Air Mail Contract Annulments

Action to Prevent Farley Move—Farley Has 20 Days to Answer or File Motion of Dismissal—Four Lines to Seek Damages.

Washington, April 18 (AP). Applications for injunctions to restrain Postmaster General Farley from enforcing his order annuling air mail contracts were filed today with the clerk of the Supreme court for the District of Columbia by four aviation companies.

The companies were Boeing Air Transport, Inc., National Aair Transport, Inc., Pacific Air Transport and Varney Air Lines, Inc.

Farley has 20 days in which either to answer or file a motion to dismiss the application.

Mark L. Requa, Republican National committeeman from California, meanwhile, categorically denied having volunteered to call former Postmaster General Brown "on the carpet" in 1931 in the interest of an aviation company controlled by E. L. Cord.

Requa was said to have done that in a letter Chairman Black (D-Al) read yesterday to the committee.

"I never at any time had any conversation with Mr. Hoover, or any other official other than Postmaster General Brown," Requa said regarding his alleged assistance to the Century Air Lines, a California company controlled by Cord.

Requa said his sole activity in connection with the air company consisted of introducing Lyndal Young, one of its officers, to Brown.

"I did it out of friendship and a desire to help California people," he told the committee.

Nine Share Huge Estate

Watertown, N. Y., April 18 (AP).—Two sons, five grandchildren, a daughter-in-law and a secretary share the $3,000,000 estate of Mrs. Emma Flower Taylor, daughter of the late Governor Roswell P. Flower. Trust funds of $50,000 each are created for the grandchildren, to be paid them when they reach 25; John B. Harris, her secretary, is left $50,000; the daughter-in-law, Mrs. Roswell F. Taylor, is beneficiary of a $100,000 trust, and the residuary is willed to the sons, Frederick Halsey and Roswell Flower.

Sheriff's 52nd Birthday

Sheriff John H. Saxe is celebrating his 52d birthday today and is being the recipient of many congratulations from his host of friends. His first reminder that the secret was out was when he reached his home at West Hurley Tuesday night and found awaiting him a box of flowers, a gift from his assistants at the office and county jail. The sheriff was putting a little extra "pep" into his actions this morning as he went about his duties, just to show the boys that he "felt as good as ever."

Treasury Deficit Greater

Washington, April 18 (AP). The treasury deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30 today reached $3,072,988,066 exceeding the deficit for the entire fiscal year of 1933.

Kingston Savings And Loan Meeting

At the public meeting of the Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association to be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel, the prizes will be awarded to the winners in the essay contest sponsored by the association and in which the students of the high schools in Ulster county participated. The successful contestants will be given their prizes and at least one of the prize essays will be read. There is no charge for this meeting whatever and everyone will be welcomed to come and enjoy the entertainment. Paul Zucca will also be present and will lead the members and guests in a few stirring songs.

Expect Governor to Sign Betting Bill

Albany, N. Y., April 18 (AP).—New York state's race track enthusiasts will be able to place their first legal bet in 26 years if Governor Lehman accords approval to the legislature's passage of the Crawford-Breitenbach measure.

His signature to the bill, which removes the penalty from open betting, is expected before the metropolitan racing season opens Saturday at Jamaica.

A slight change made in the bill by the Assembly was approved yesterday by the Senate, 39 to 10, and it was sent to the governor, who has said he would sign it.

The Assembly passed the bill by a vote of 97 to 45.

The measure provides that persons who wager may bring suit to recover any losses, their winnings being deducted from the latter. This takes the "teeth" out of the Hughes anti-betting bill which has made betting illegal in this state since 1908. It also places a 15 per cent tax on gross receipts at tracks, estimated to bring a yearly revenue of $1,500,000.

Turfmen are confident the measure, and two others awaiting Assembly approval, will bring relief to the financially-distressed five race tracks in the state. Their revenues have fallen from $2,913,775 in 1929 to $1,153,440 last year.

The other racing bills are the Dunnigan bills to create a new commission to participate in supervision of the sport and the Twomey resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel wagering. They have been passed by the Senate.

Mrs. Herbert Lockett, who underwent a major operation in St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, is expected to return home this week.

Mrs. Bertha Denniston accompanied Mrs. A. L. Peckman, regent of Mahwenawasigh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Misses Dorothy Ebleider and Edna Albro of Poughkeepsie to Washington, D. C., this week to attend the D. A. R. Continental Congress.

WASHINGTON HEADLINERS

No. 9—Son of Iowa Harness-Maker, Hopkins Hands Out Billions

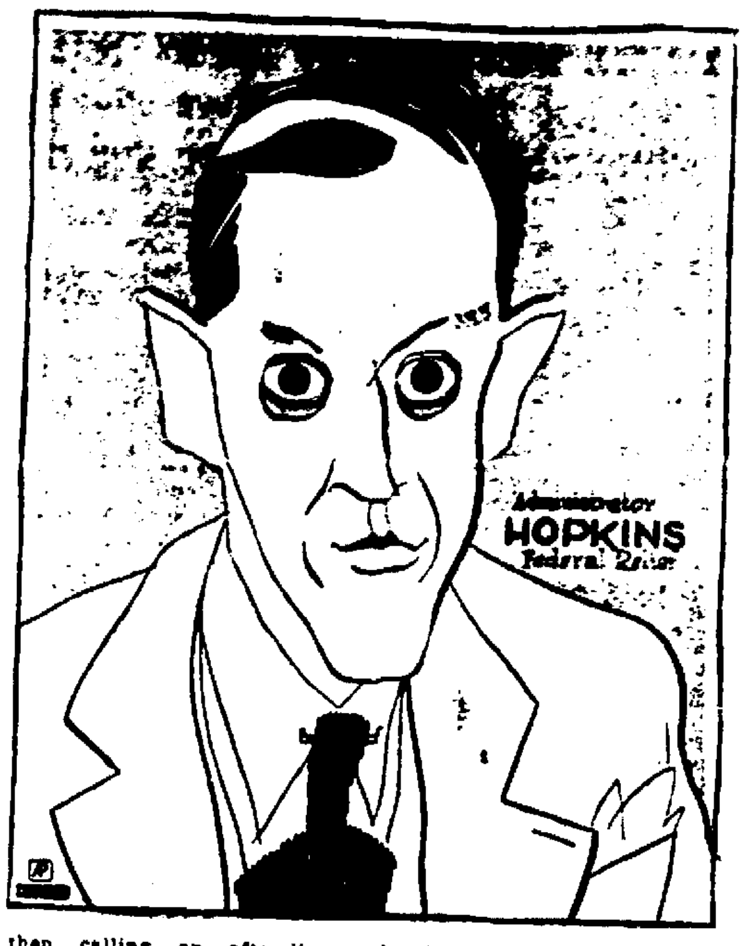
This is the ninth in a series of articles sketching the personalities of prominent figures in Washington.

By CARL C. CRANMER

Washington (AP).—Giving away nearly two billion dollars is a job many people might like, but there are things Harry L. Hopkins, director of the federal emergency relief administration, would rather do.

The time when jobs are plentiful and no one is in need of federal relief can't come too soon to please him. Then he can close up shop and engage again in public health work, something he likes and something he believes helps prevent human distress.

Hopkins was in New York when he got a telephone call one Saturday afternoon from President Roosevelt. He was at his desk here the next Monday.



Confers "In Transit"

He had $500,000,000 to give to the states on the basis of relief needs. He put 4,000,000 men to work in 30 days when $400,000,000 was allotted for civil works. Now congress has appropriated an additional $950,000,000. Besides, he has $25,000,000 to buy submarginal land.

That is the ladling-out job handled by this man of 44 whose long, swinging stride betrays his athletic training as a basketball star at Grinnell college in Iowa where he had the reputation of being a scrappy player. But his shoulders, broad for his figure, already are slightly bent from desk work.

Those shoulders need to be broad. Harry Hopkins has acquired a few gray hairs since he took his job here a few months ago. He thinks nothing of working in his office until 8 or 9 o'clock at night without dinner, and then calling an after-dinner conference.

Usually four or five men are waiting in his outer office when he has to leave. So he holds conferences on the way to lunch, returning from dinner, on the way home. He even confers on the way downtown in the morning riding in the big traded-in White House limousine which replaced a 5-passenger car too small for his "in-transit" meetings.

Born in Iowa

Hopkins is know to his associates as a welfare worker who has exceptional executive ability and who is articulate about his objectives. Welfare work to him is not a mass of hazy idealism, but a job to be done immediately.

Born in Sioux City, Ia., he knew hard times when his father, a harness maker, lost his business in the panic of 1893.

Harry Hopkins aimed to be a newspaper publisher after college, but was diverted into directing a boys' camp. Holding executive jobs with welfare and public health organizations in New York, managing Red Cross activities in the south, and directing the temporary relief organization in New York appointed by Governor Roosevelt, fitted him for his present task.

Despite the serious nature of his work, Hopkins is known as a practical joker in the capital. He once attempted to console Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture, because she had missed or forgotten a luncheon of a patriotic society which she was to have attended.

"That wasn't so bad," said Hopkins. "But you missed another one today."

After days of worrying, checking date lists and wondering whom she'd offended, Mrs. Wallace discovered Hopkins had been joking.

"Joshes" Correspondents

Hopkins' press conferences probably are characterized by more "joshing" between himself and the correspondents than any other in Washington except those held by the President.

A crack bridge player and an enthusiastic follower of horse racing, boxing, fishing and golf, sports for which he has no time now, he is likely to greet the newspapermen with: "That last race yesterday saved me from walking home."

He has a quizzical, sidelong look for reporters who try to draw him out with a trick question. Many times is answer is a simple "yes" or "no," sometimes "yeah" or "nope."

Next—Secretary Ickes.

BLOOMINGTON

Miss Frieda Niebergall, Seymour Coutant and Mrs. Ennis Coutant of Kingston spent Sunday afternoon with the latter's sister, Mrs. Neal Hotaling and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Coutant and Mrs. Willis DuBois of Kingston called on Mrs. Neal Hotaling on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. S. Roosa, Mrs. H. Wesp, Mrs. H. Ten Hagen of Rosendale, Mrs. Neal Hotaling, Miss F. Relyea met at the home of Mrs. C. V. W. Bedford on Thursday of last week to make the final arrangements for the dinner to be served to the Ulster Classis who will hold a session at the church Tuesday morning and afternoon.

Miss Evelyn Newell, a student nurse at the Kingston Hospital, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Newell.

Miss Elizabeth Zuelch, who spent the winter with relatives and friends in New York city, returned here to her summer cottage on Monday as she spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hummel and family.

Miss Dorothy Krom, who has been ill at the Kingston Hospital, has returned home.

Mrs. E. L. DeGraff and grandson, Georgie Conkling, of Jersey City spent a few days recently at Mrs. DeGraff's summer cottage here.

Miss Ida Stuffel and sister, Mrs. Ernest Grafe, motored to Warwick Hospital one day recently.

On April 8, J. Bell of Whiteport entertained his children. Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Every and little son of Kingston, with her sister, Miss Dora Bell, student nurse at the Kingston Hospital, and Franklin Bell of New York city and uncle, Mr. Grant, and also Mr. Bell's mother, all of New York, spent the day at Whiteport at the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Willett Roosa of the Binnewater called on Mr. and Mrs. L. Terhune on Monday afternoon.

LIVESTOCK, FLOWERS FOUND IN CALIFORNIA SHIPMENTS.

Woodstock, April 18.—Tuesday morning employes at the F. B. Happy & Co., store, Woodstock, opened a crate of lettuce from California and discovered under a fold of leaves a tiny bullfrog, apparently very contented. The little animal was put in Mrs. Effie Happy's garden pool.

This morning in a basket of spinach a very small, perfect daisy was found.

Starling Demands Control

There perhaps is no other bird that practices territorial control with a greater vengeance than the starling. It will take complete possession of any nesting box or colony house it can enter, driving other and more desirable birds away.

Central Business Men Plan Banquet

The Central Business Men's Association held a special meeting Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. to plan for the annual spring banquet. The tentative date of May 1 was fixed and the final date and place for holding the banquet will be arranged by a committee consisting of William O'Reilly, president of the association, Monroe Southard, Frank Brown and Harry B. Walker.

Several matters were discussed and the association voted to contribute $25 to the "Y" financial drive now on.

As soon as the banquet committee is ready to submit a report another meeting of the association will be held to complete plans for the annual event.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

"Gasoline Widow."

Chicago—Into the separate maintenance court came Mrs. Jennie R. [illegible] with the allegation that she was a "gasoline widow."

For sixteen years she had been happily wed, but, she charged, the affections of her husband, Otto, were alienated by streamlines so that he purchased one new car after another, while their five children went hungry.

Judge Walter LaBuy granted an injunction prohibiting Otto from buying new cars for a while.

Explorations.

Waukegan, Ill.—Underground exploration held a fascination for George Clark, 5, so he crawled into a twelve inch drain pipe.

Five feet underground, he found himself in a tight place. Unable to go forward or backward, George screamed. The neighbors dug. Somebody called the police; they dug. After an hour, Geeorge was brought to light, uninjured.

Monkey Business.

Chicago—Henceforth visitors to the monkey house at the Lincoln Park Zoo have got to stop acting like monkeys.

It's to save the wear and tear on the beasts, not the visitors.

These things are reported to have occurred:

A gentleman visitor took off his toupee, and a monkey tore out part of its own hair trying to imitate him.

Another visitor pretended to give himself some well directed uppercuts, and a monkey almost knocked himself out trying to do the same.

Result: Two policemen are stationed in the monkey house to make visitors stop monkey business.

Chief Victim.

Denver—Police Chief Albert T. Clark has a couple of his best detectives seeking a poisoner accused of killing 52 dogs here since last fall. Clark's own dog was a victim and the chief has offered $100 reward for apprehension of the killer.

Knows His Onions.

Caldwell, Idaho.—Mess Sergeant Cornleius T. Cramer of Headquarters Troop, 116th Cavalry, Idaho National Guard, knows his onions, as well as his cabbages and vitamins.

Major John Hood was giving the organization its annual examination.

"Do you believe in feeding your troops on salads and greens?" He incuired of Sergeant Cramer.

"Yes, sir."

"Why?"

"Because green stuff contains vitamin C."

"Name some disease this vitamin prevents," directed the major.

"Scurvy, sir."

"Do you know what a sacrimisocerricia is?"

"Yes, sir."

"How do you happen to know that?"

"I'm biological instructor of the College of Idaho here, sir."

"At Home."

Philadelphia—John Crawford received a sentence of a year in jail on a charge of beating his wife. On his way from the court room he stopped and said something to her.

"What did he say?" inquired Judge Edwin O. Lewis. "Did he threaten you?"

"No, sir," replied Mrs. Lewis. "He just asked me to come up 'n see him some time."

DR. WYLIE TO SPEAK ON "SECURING FAMILY HARMONY"

"Family discord and quarreling are not necessarily bad and do not always indicate abnormal relationships," says Dr. Margaret Wylie, child psychologist from the New York State College of Home Economics, who will speak Thursday evening at the court house in Kingston on "Securing Family Harmony."

Dr. Wylie believes that the home is normally the place where members of the family are able to express fully their disatisfaction and discontent with the world at large as well as with other individuals of the family group. Differences in age, temperament, individual capacities are some factors causing tension, which if long continued results in discord.

How to prevent the development of tension and conflict and how to neutralize them if they exist will be discussed by Dr. Wylie in her talk.

The meeting Thursday evening will begin at 8 o'clock and is open to everyone in city or county wishing to attend.

More Than Half Billion Paid in Gasoline Taxes

Washington.—Gasoline taxes paid to the various states by motor vehicle operators during 1933 totaled $519,123,716, an increase of 1.18 per cent over the collections in 1932.

New York led, with collections amounting to $43,162,012; California was second, with about $35,000,000, and Pennsylvania ranked third, with $30,924,905.

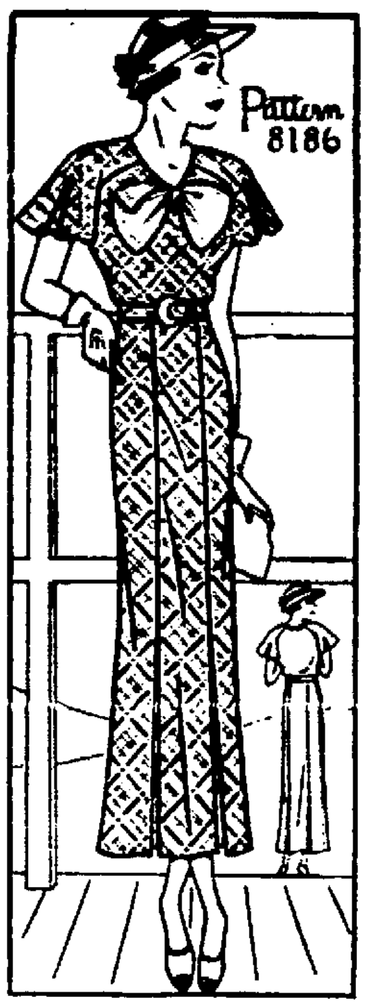
Oregon was the only state to increase its tax rate last year, its rate now being 5.18 cents a gallon.

In 1932 the total for gasoline taxes was $513,047,230.

The Damascus Sword Blade

The Crusaders first drew attention to Damascus blades. They were found to possess not only great elasticity, united with considerable hardness, but their surfaces were covered with beautiful designs formed by a tissue of dark lines on a light ground, or light lines upon a dark ground and occasionally by the inlaying of gold on the steel blue ground. Gold and silver are inlaid in the higher class of sword blade. In genuine Damascus blades the designs run through the substance of the blade and the watering or regular, almost symmetrical figuring is not worn off by friction or even grinding.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.



The Popular Cotton Plaid.

8186.—The popularity of plaids in cotton materials continues unabated. Catering to the demand for an attractive and simple design for general usefulness is this one-piece frock. The flaring raglan sleeves are slashed and pleats inserted giving width and a finished look about them and the inverted pleats in the front and back of the skirt are simple to make and very effective. The costume is completed by the addition of the large white tie trimmed with rickrack braid.

The delightful colors in cottons, whether checked, plaids or monotones, make choosing a difficult though interesting task.

Designed in sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 38 requires 4⅛ yards of 35 inch material with ¼ yard contrasting.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, April 18—Mr. and Mrs. John Stoudt and Mrs. Peter Ries of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Wortman of Washington avenue, Kingston.

Mrs. A. E. Vetoskie and daughters and a few others from the village attended the Prismatic Follies at Kingston High School last week.

Joseph Scherer was a guest at a banquet held at Huling's Barn on Monday evening.

Officer Fred Stoudt was a caller at the home of his parents on Friday.

Mr. Bennett of Poughkeepsie was a recent caller on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scherer.

A coffee klatch and food sale will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Andersen on Thursday, April 19, to which the public is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cole and daughter, Anna, and son, Hudson, and Miss Ruth DeGraff of Ulster Park motored to Albany on Sunday.

School will close at 2:30 p. m. on Friday, April 27, in order to allow any of the children to attend the opera, Hansel and Gretel, sponsored by the Federated Council of P.-T. A. Reservations must be made by April 19 at high school or from Mrs. A. Windran.

A "send off" reception was given the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Gebbard on Tuesday evening by the Ladies' Aid Society and Auxiliary of the M. E. Church, prior to his leaving for his new charges in Margaretville, and other points.

LAKE KATRINE GRANGE HELD MEETING MONDAY

Lake Katrine, April 18.—The regular meeting of the Lake Katrine Grange was held at the hall on Monday evening, April 16. There were 46 patrons present. The officer reported absent was the treasurer.

The meeting was opened in due form with the worthy master William T. Hookey, Jr., presiding. Master Hookey explained many new pointers he received while at the masters' and lecturers' conference at Balmville. Sister Hookey also gave a very interesting report of the meeting bringing many new suggestions to the lecturer for the purpose of interesting as well as entertaining literary programs.

Sister Jane Bolce was reported ill.

Sister and Brother D'Aigle thanked the Grange for flowers received during their convalescence.

The Lake Katrine Home Bureau have been given the permission to use the hall on the afternoon of April 26 for a demonstration of the project, Kitchen Mechanics.

Patrons of the Plattekill Grange will atend the next meeting May 7.

Literary hour: Special feature, "The Village Choir"; song: "Keeping up with the world," read by Sister Dederick; a game, stretching the elastic, played by three teams; songs; article read by Brother Hendricks, "How high a salary a man can earn"; song; article read by Sister Ronson, "What to do if you are lost in the woods," which was exceptionally interesting especially to those who enjoy wandering through the woods at this time of the year. At this time all were highly entertained by a group called "The Village Choir," each one dressed in old fashioned clothes. They gave a very authentic impersonation of an old time village choir, which was very entertaining to all. After this little sketch this talented group entertained with the following program: Tenor solo, Bill Gardner; duet, Edith DuBois and Francis LaVelle; violin solo, and a special composition by Edith DuBois, violinist, Emmett Ziegler; soprano solo, sung by Miss Estella Brown; tenor solo, Francis LaVelle; duet, Miss Edith DuBois and Bill Garner; duet, sung by Francis LaVelle and Willet Overbagh. Miss Edith DuBois was pianist. This exceptionally good and entertaining program was enthusiastically received by the patrons and a rising vote of thanks was given to the players for a very pleasant musical entertainment. After the close of the meeting refreshments consisting of delicious assorted sandwiches, cake, tea and coffee were enjoyed by all.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, April 18.—Miss Rosabelle MacDonald has been making a few alterations in her house.

DeWitt Shultis is confined to the house with the mumps now that the rest of his family is safely through with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seaton have returned to their home after Mr. Seaton's illness spent in a New York hospital. They have rented their half of the old farm house on the old Cole place to Mr. and Mrs. David Vaughan, who have spent their last few years in southern France. Their children speak French as well as English which has caused a good deal of interest among the Zena school children in French judging from the use being made of this correspondent's English-French dictionary.

At 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning Richard Bronson was aroused by a racket in his hen yard. On peering out the window he saw a large black dog making off with a fine white hen in his mouth. It was much too early to get much aroused by losing a hen that was laying a one-cent egg each day, so Mr. Bronson crawled back to bed thinking that the dog would not come again, anyway that day. But the dog did come again and inside of a half hour. This time Mr. Bronson was more responsive and this time his ire was in full flow. He emitted such a terrifying shout that the dog dropped hen number two and ran for his life. Thus, unceremoniously aroused on a beautiful Sunday morning the family voted to arise and greet the day with one eye on the joyful sun and one eye on the depleted hen yard. They feel that the marauder has been taken to task by his owners for this episode, as he has since then stayed away.

County Legion Meets At Woodstock Tonight

Woodstock, April 18—The meeting of the Woodstock Post of the American Legion tonight at 8 p. m. will be held at Firemen's Hall instead of the Legion rooms, as it is to be a county meeting and a large attendance is expected. After the meeting there will be music, dancing and refreshments.

DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE GARDINER HOME BUREAU

New brass for old, clean silver as if by magic and other modern ideas that help homemakers with the routine of housecleaning were demonstrated Tuesday afternoon before the Gardiner Home Bureau. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond DuBois, at Forest Glen, and the demonstration was given by Mrs. Arnold Petersen and Mrs. Gilbert Bevier, local leaders.

Dustless dust cloths, rouge and tripoli cloths for polishing and removing scratches from silver were made by each homemaker present for her use in the future. The local leaders were given a vote of thanks from the community for the splendid work they have done in presenting this valuable course to them.

At the close of the demonstration in "Modern Methods of Housecleaning" Miss Evelyn Nance, Home Bureau Manager, gave a demonstration in the dyeing of rugs. A discussion on colors and their effect upon each other was first given, after which actual dyeing was done to demonstrate possibilities. "Rugs that may be worn in places as that are faded can be dyed to look like new," said Miss Nance. "Instead of enduring a faded rug which makes a whole room look shabby, or one with colors so bright or design so conspicuous that it quarrels with any color scheme, one can get harmony by changing the color of the rug. Faded rugs, or those which are wrong in color or design may be dyed a shade which blends with other rugs, as well as with walls, curtains, and furniture."

Those present at the meeting were: Miss Mary Deyo, Mrs. David DuBois, Mrs. Raymond DuBois, Miss Edna Dugan, Mrs. John Morris, Mrs. Arnold Petersen, Mrs. Louis LeFevre, Mrs. Philip Donahue, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. W. O. Miller, Mrs. Gilbert Bevier, Mrs. Van Orden, Mrs. Stanley Gray, Mrs. Lee Gray, Mrs. Thomas Butler, Mrs. Raymond Butler and Mrs. Frytag.

Teaching Ad Writing.

Mrs. Elsie Myers Pultz of the faculty of Spencer's Business School teaches ad writing to her pupils as part of their secretarial training course. Several of the ads written by the students were submitted to the advertising department of The Freeman for inspection and many of them were found to contain very original and new ideas in advertising for a wide variety of businesses.

McDOWELL NOT OSTERHOUDT INTRODUCED RESOLUTION.

Ulster County
Board of Supervisors
Ross K. Osterhoudt, Supervisor
Town of Marbletown
Stone Ridge, N. Y.
April 18, 1934.

Freeman Publishing Co.,
Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

For the sake of accuracy it might be well for you to correct the enclosed published article in which you state that charges against County Supt. James F. Loughran were brought by Supervisor Ross Osterhoudt.

The resolution presenting these charges was introduced by Supervisor Tuthill McDowell of Wawarsing. And while I voted for it and am heartily in favor of it I feel that credit for its introduction should go to Mr. McDowell.

Very truly yours,
ROSS K. OSTERHOUDT.

(The article to which Mr. Osterhoudt refers, did credit the resolution to oust Highway Superintendent Loughran to Mr Osterhoudt. The resolution should have been credited to Mr. McDowell. Ed.)

One Little Pheasant Was Far From Home

One little cock pheasant strayed away from home Tuesday night evidently intending to see the bright lights on Broadway, and while strutting across Broadway at Union street about 5 o'clock this morning an automobile shooting down the hill struck and killed the bird.

Policeman Henry P. Barmann is well known to his fellow officers as a hunter and angler of note. He was patroling Broadway this morning when he saw the pheasant lying, a crumpled little heap on the pavement. He rubbed his eyes in astonishment. "Am I seeing things", he murmured to himself, "or is that a pheasant I see."

"It's funny", he ruminated as he walked hastily out into the road, but when it is my day off and I stroll the woods with my gun I never run across one of the danged birds." He picked it up and saw that it was dead. Later he delivered the bird to police headquarters and the game protector was notified of the find.

DRUMS AND CYMBALS

Most Americans cannot understand Nazi Germany. It is best explained, perhaps, as a phenomenon of mass hypnotism, much like that of the World War. In a recent article by Shepherd Stone in the New York Times, depicting Hitler as a master-hypnotist, the writer says:

> Today the hypnotized Germans are living in a Nazi dream and not in the reality of the world. Yet it is possible that more Germans are happy now than at any time since the war. They like to play soldier, and under Hitler they play it overtime. Despite the advent of winter, with its cold and suffering, the demonstrations go on. Nazi aviators thrill crowds with daredevil stunts. Everywhere drums and cymbals crash and the martial spirit is in the air.
>
> And the crowds go home elated in the conviction that the Third Reich is the consummation of a divine development. For, as Hitler has written in his autobiography, 'through smart and continuous application of propaganda, a people can be made to believe that Heaven is Hell, and vice versa—that the most miserable condition is a paradise.'

There are signs lately, however, that the hypnotic mood is wearing off. Hitler himself seems weary and frazzled. The people show signs of discouragement, as their hard lot fails to improve and the ring of enmity created by Nazi hate and cruelty continues to tighten around the Fatherland.

MAY DAY FOR CHILDREN

In his Child Health Day proclamation President Roosevelt asked "all official and voluntary agencies and organizations and individuals interested in child welfare to unite in the observance of such exercises as will result in a deeper realization by the people of the necessity for the protection and promotion of the health of the nation's children and in greater, unified effort to improve the existing child-welfare program wherever it is found inadequate."

May Day was suggested as Child Health Day by Congress in 1928, when by a joint resolution it requested the President of the United States to issue such an annual proclamation. For the organizations and individuals engaged in special work with and for children, this day of observance serves chiefly to call attention to the children's cause. If child welfare is to be effectively promoted it must have popular support.

The public has begun to realize that, as the Roosevelt proclamation says, "the welfare of the nation is vitally affected by the health of its children." Any forward-looking social-health program for the nation as a whole requires for its foundation the best physical and mental development of the children. The progress already made has been fine, but there is much more to do. Child Health Day calls attention to this fact.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY.

Some of those Senate amendments to the new revenue bill stir up a wave of criticism. There is the income tax publicity feature, for instance. We have had such a provision before, permitting public inspection of income tax returns, and even newspaper publicity. The present arrangement would go farther, making not merely the amount of tax paid, but the entire tax return, a public record which could be examined at the internal revenue office upon application.

The object is to give the public a chance to check up on taxpayers suspected of holding out on the government. If there must be any such double-checking, this is better than the old plan, which merely allowed publicity for the amount of tax paid. The actual payment in itself means little, and may be wrongly interpreted, because one citizen with a good income may have low exemptions, while another may have heavy taxes, interest and losses to deduct. The whole business, in any form, is "nosey," and therefore unpopular among income taxpayers. But it

[illegible] adopted [illegible] the case of [illegible] reports and fairer [illegible] is [illegible]

HALF-WAY STATION

President Roosevelt has [illegible] a trip to Honolulu next summer [illegible] would go on a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the sea and [illegible] visiting [illegible] [illegible]. There are [illegible] that Premier Mussolini [illegible] Hawaii. He would pay a [illegible] to the grave of his brother [illegible] who died there about [illegible] years ago.

One [illegible] is as good as another. And it would be an interesting coincidence if the two governmental heads should arrive in Honolulu at the same time. There would be nothing of course to prevent their meeting while there. In fact, it would be an obvious courtesy on both sides. Some things might be cleared up in such a meeting, better than through the usual diplomatic processes. There are problems involving America and Japan which need clearing up, if these two proud and energetic nations are to continue living peacefully and profitably on opposite sides of the same ocean.

KEEP THE FORESTS GROWING.

For years conservationists talked about trees as crops, showing that it was not only possible but necessary to replace our forests as fast as they were cut down. Most lumber interests were too selfish or too ignorant to see that. The public as a whole had not recovered from the psychology of the pioneers, to whom the vast forests were an obstacle to be cleared away for settlements and cultivated fields. The result has been disastrous in many parts of the country where adverse climate changes, serious soil erosion and devastating floods have followed the stripping of forests.

That wasteful era seems to be coming to an end. Amendments to the lumber code require holders of private timber lands to adhere to certain general standards of logging practice. They must cut only trees of a certain size, dispose of slash and enforce strict fire-protection rules. Trees are to be harvested as crops, with steady planting for future crops. It is an excellent beginning. There must also be additional planting to replace many forests already destroyed.

CAUSES OF RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism, or arthritis as it is now called so often, is one of the oldest diseases known and also one that is known in practically all countries situated in the temperate zone.

For many years research physicians have been endeavoring to find the special or specific organism that causes rheumatism, but the general feeling is that more than one factor enters into the cause of this ailment.

Various causes—an organism from infected teeth, tonsils, or intestine, sudden changes of weather, not enough meat and eggs and too much starchy food are among those blamed for arthritis. A bad cold, tonsillitis, or inflammation of the ear, instead of rapidly clearing up (particularly in children), passes from an acute to a chronic condition and after each attack or after a prolonged attack the body defenses in these individuals are broken down and rheumatism results.

And, as mentioned before, an attack of tonsillitis may be all cleared up and forgotten before the attack of rheumatism occurs, and the tonsillitis is never suspected of causing the rheumatism.

While infection from various sources—teeth, tonsils, intestine—has been definitely shown to cause rheumatism, nevertheless the cause in other cases is thought to be due to the tissues of the individual being sensitive to various organisms, foods, or other substances. As you know various food substances, pollen from plants, furs and feathers cause asthma, hay fever, and eczema owing to direct contact with them. Dr. Frances M. Rackemann in New England Medical Journal, tells us that rheumatism may be caused by various substances in the body which do not act as rapidly as in hay fever, but nevertheless gradually cause the inflamed condition of the joints.

That is the symptoms of rheumatism must depend upon something in or about the tissues themselves, which makes the victims react or become sensitive to various organisms or substances manufactured by these organisms.

In other words, in order to produce rheumatism there must be the seed (organisms, products of organisms), and the soil (sensitiveness of the tissues).

Added to this are other points that must be considered—temperature, atmospheric pressure, sudden changes in the weather, too much starchy food.

The first thought however in treating rheumatism is to rid the body of any possible infection.

Great Lakes Do Not Freeze

The Great Lakes do not freeze entirely during the winter, but the harbors and often the connecting rivers are closed by ice. The navigable season at Soo is about seven and one-half months, and at Erie somewhat longer.

Judith Lane

by JEANNE BOWMAN

[illegible] and tell Judith [illegible] is working to prove to the [illegible] that there is no oil [illegible] of ground Scoggins holds [illegible] to the Eva Dennis [illegible] in a storm [illegible] the dam with [illegible] by Big Tom Bevins [illegible] And she has seen [illegible] Norman Lane, in the [illegible] who is [illegible] to distract Judith's work, and to recover the Bevins money for Mrs. Bevins and her daughter.

Chapter 25

CALLERS COME

THE storm was over, the clean cool air that followed in its wake blew through Judith's house. Delphy sniffed it gratefully as she stood at the kitchen door, then sniffed back towards the kitchen and waddled rapidly across the floor towards the stove.

"Didn't burn," she said with a sigh of relief, and drew a golden-brown up-side down cake from the oven. Carefully then she went over her menu for the evening meal.

She went to the front door and looked down the hill. Judith Dale was coming up alone. Her clothing, dripping wet from the still falling rain, clung to her slim figure, her hair hung in bedraggled wisps, even her shoulders seemed slouched under some sodden weight.

As she came close she looked up and Delphy wondered if the wet drops glistening on her cheeks were rain drops or tears.

"Look at cha," she growled, like a mother bear. "Just look. Like a drownded rat, hair a bangin'. What you suspect to do, take yo' death a cold? Come long in here and git in your tub. Take those wet clothes off—"

She started peeling the garments from the unprotesting girl as she scolded, handed her a flannel robe and went to fill the canvas tub. Still Judith said nothing. Obediently she went to the tub, bathed, dressed in dry clothing and came back to the main room to sit down in a chair and stare stupidly at the door.

Delphy carried in a small tray with a cup of strong, black coffee and Judith sipped it dutifully.

"Miss Judy," Delphy could stand her silence no longer, "what you-all grievin' for. What's happent?"

"I'm not grieving, Delphy, I'm just . . . just sunk, that's all."

"You mean cause that well done blew up?"

"It didn't blow up, Delphy, lightning struck the derrick. There was a leak in a drum of fuel oil that blew up and caused the other drums to go."

"Laws a-me," confided Delphy. "I done thought Judgment Day were here sure-nuff. I could just hear Gabriel a blowin' his ho'n an, Miss Judith." Delphy giggled a little. "I most made up my mind to send Lige back his money, what's left of it, 'cause I didn't play honess, I was too scared a losin' and not gettin' to come long with you.'"

"IT DID make an awful noise; thank Heavens everyone was over here on the hill. The debris flew for hundreds of yards, and one piece went right through one of the motor truck houses. From the way Mamie Scoggins is acting you'd think I'd ordered the lightning in."

"You mean she say you have to build another one?"

"Yes Delphy, and I haven't the money." She didn't know why she was confiding in the old woman, but she had to talk to someone and goodness knew that no one had been more faithful. "you see, in our contract, I agreed to see they dug or drilled to the five thousand foot level. They are only down three. Delphy . . . why does everything have to go wrong?"

"Reckon' it's the Devil's Dam, Miss Judy, but everything ain't a goin' wrong. That there lightnin' was throwed down there by Mister Tom's ghost. He done see what misery them Scogginses were bringin' you. But don't you worry none. Ma'ss Norman, he'll come 'long back. Some a these days that bad boy. I knows him, and then everything will be all right."

Judith started to eat to please Delphy, then found she was really hungry, the food delicious.

"Delphy," she said, as the old woman appeared with a triangle of cake, topped with a cloud of whipped cream, "what did you mean when you said Mr. Norman would be coming back? You know I left Hillendale, he didn't leave me."

"Miss Judy, Ma'ss No'm, he left you, afore you left Hill and dell."

"What do you mean Delphy?"

"If Ma'ss Norman had been united to you in solemn matrimony, he wouldn't a acted like he done."

"But Delphy we were . . . united—"

"I know by the preachers, but you didn't think alike and 'cause you wouldn't think united solemn-like with Ma'ss Norman he done set about doin' things his way. I raised him, Miss Judy, I knows."

"Delicious cake," said Judith, a new note of confidence in her voice, then looked up. Delphy's back had straightened like a ramrod.

"Heah comes them white trash now," she said and Judith, leaning forward, saw the Scoggins family approaching.

Judith left the table, told Delphy to clear it quickly, and met the trio at the front door. She glanced in astonishment at the shimmer of sequins as Mrs. Scoggins removed a rain sodden coat, and noticed in a second glance that her pretty, vapid, face had been thickly coated with powder to hide tear stains.

Tommy, in long trousers and his first white collar, was very serious. Judith couldn't tell whether it was an expression worn for the solemnity of the occasion or the dignity of his new clothes.

And then she turned to Scoggins, senior. He wore the shabby town suit he had probably bought for his big adventure when he left Arkansas years before, and had saved for momentous occasions. From his inner pocket he was drawing his copy of the contract she had made with him, three months before.

Judith winced. He had come, as Cila would have said, "To put the screws on the torture chair." He was going to prove that she had promised—

"Mrs. Dale."

She realized he was using his oratorical voice reserved for important occasions—"we have gathered here this evening to tell you—"

"Please sit down," Judith interrupted. She felt her knees were going to buckle under her.

"MRS. DALE," Scoggins repeated the opening salutation of the speech he was intent upon making. He alone of the trio had remained standing, "we have gathered here this evening to tell you that we have seen a great light.

"In deepest hum—hum—hum—"

"Humiliation," prompted Tommy in a stage whisper.

"Humiliation we have come to tell you that the sword of the Lord has cut the blindness from our eyes."

Judith had interrupted one of Mr. Scoggins' declamations, she didn't intend to interrupt another, but she did wish he would get to the point. Word after word rolled in sonorous tones from his tongue. Occasionally whole sentences would remain in Judith's mind, such as—

"Big Tom Bevins found us on the banks of the Rio Diablo, destitute, beggars, starving. He shared his food with us and then he lifted us up and gave us a chance to be human beings again."

There was more of this extolling Big Tom and Big Tom's unselfish generosity.

"And what did I do for him?" barked the little man suddenly. "I listened to the serpent's voice. The woman tempted me with riches and I fell."

Judith was glad Cila Sanford wasn't present.

"Miss Judith, that is, Mrs. Dale, have you a match?" came suddenly at the end of a wordy declamation.

Judith motioned Delphy, who brought in a box of matches, admiration for the "white traish" who could use words like he could, shining in her black eyes.

Scoggins struck a match, let the flame burn to gold, then holding the contract in one hand, the match in the other he said—"The sword of the Lord burned the altar of Mammon. So will I burn this contract."

There was a flash of fire, and Scoggins, suddenly human, dropped the burning contract on the floor while Delphy shuffled away for a pan of water.

Judith was hysterical. An overwhelming desire to laugh, an overwhelming desire to cry and an overwhelming sense of relief each fought for supremacy. Scoggins saw the tears in her eyes and nodded with satisfaction, then lapsing into his natural tone of voice said—

"Land sakes, Miss Judy, didn't you think the Mexicans had crossed the border with big guns when them there drums started explodin'?"

Judith was relieved at his normal tone and started talking with animation. She could see Delphy standing by the kitchen table, eyeing the remains of her up-side-down cake as if trying to decide whether or not the Scoggins family were worthy of it.

The oratory of Thomas, Senior, evidently won for she put on the coffee pot and started clicking cake plates together.

Judith takes a trip, tomorrow.

AGRIGRAPHS

Pruning before growth starts in the spring is best for trees and shrubs.

Uncle Ab says a common cold affects all classes of people, both the common and the uncommon.

White bread has sold throughout the country at an average price of 7.9 cents for a one-pound loaf since the first of December.

Severe outbreaks of coccidiosis are more likely to occur in flocks of growing chickens weakened by improper feedings, housing, and brooding.

Six loans to farmers' cooperative organizations totalling nearly $4,000,000 were approved by the central bank for cooperatives of the farm credit administration during February.

Anyone who plants a forest lays a foundation for later income. A Cornell bulletin E-226 tells all about forest planting on the farm. Write to the New York state college of agriculture for a copy.

Potato growers use more fertilizer than any other group of farmers in New York. Probably one-fourth to one-third of the growers in western New York could well afford to use more. Some growers on Long Island probably use more than is needed.

Pardoning Power of President

Pardoning power of the President extends only to federal prisoners and he does not have Constitutional power to pardon state prisoners. This power lies only with the governor or the pardoning board of each individual state.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, April 17.—The unfavorable weather failed to prevent a jolly group of 26 or more townsfolk from attending the Rebekah's box party Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gaylord Ayers at Brodhead. Reports of having had a really wonderful time are heard on every hand. Box parties have from days of yore been favorite pastimes amend reservoir country folk.

Mrs. Grace Winchell, comely and hospitable mistress of Sunny Cliff, spent Friday to Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Hyatt, and son, Stephen, in Kingston.

Ernie Constable, versatile sage of High Point Mountain, called on several of his valley neighbors on Monday evening.

Former Highway Commissioner Egbert M. Boice of Watson Hollow has purchased the fine conditioned 1932 Chevrolet dump truck formerly owned by Commissioner William Jordan. The truck went to ex-Supervisor Chet Lyons, the Ashokan dealer, in a deal by which Mr. Jordan becomes the owner of a 1934 maroon Chevrolet sedan. Aside from farm uses Mr. Boice has considerable use for a truck on the yearly town road jobs.

William Colange visited John Bell at Kingston Hospital on Monday afternoon.

Rainy weather or no, spring days are busy days at Sunny Cliff. The cool weather continuing induced Judge Winchell to slaughter his last pair of sprightly wintered young porkers.

The Traver Hollow Inn family group were entertained Friday evening at the Smith residence on Main street.

Old friends of the pre-reservoir days here learned with regret recently of the death of a highly esteemed former local resident, Mrs. George Seimon of Kingston.

On Sunday afternoon Judge Henry Winchell and friend, Charles Langer of Wallkill, paid a surprise call on Elwyn Davis at West Shokan Heights. Mr. Langer, who is a famed collector and connoisseur of ancient and middle age fire arms and weapons, inspected the Davis and Crispell family collection.

Town road repairs have been going full swing on days weather permitting of late near the former Frank Roosa farm, now the Fromme place on the Olive Bridge cross road. This is under the direction of Clarance Eckert, the Krumville postmaster an formanship appointee under the new deal administration of Commissioner of Highways Claude Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Bell of Main street were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every at Traver Hollow. Mr. and Mrs. Albert North of North Main street heights, were evening visitors.

Frost repairs caused by the severe winter have recently been made to the swimming pool dam at High Point Camp. The work was done by metropolitan workmen.

Commissioner of Highways Claude Bell has purchased a shining new 1934 Chevrolet coupe from Chester Lyons, Ashokan agency.

Members of the Dooley family of Yonkers were here on a week-end visit at the family summer property at West Shokan Heights.

Superintendent and Mrs. Frank Roosa of High Point Springs Farm spent Sunday evening with their neighbors, Judge and Mrs. Henry Winchell.

R. B. Longyear of Phoenicia assisted by his co-worker, Mr. Waterman, trucked a load of hay Friday afternoon from the Davis barn at West Shokan Heights.

Deputy Sheriff Everett Roosa of Kingston visited his Watson Hollow road bungalow property on Monday. Mr. Roosa, who formerly resided here and at Brown Station, was employed several years as a sergeant on the Board of Water Supply reservoir police force.

Myron Silkworth and family of Kingston spent Sunday at their Watson Hollow camp.

William Jordan and Harlowe McLean of Brodhead district were West Shokan Heights callers Monday.

Catherine Sherman of Dwyers Corners spent the week-end in Kingston with Mrs. Lily Sherman.

April 18, 1853, John B. Davis, well known Olive lawyer and surveyor of that day, was called to New York city as a witness in the United States court. Mr. Davis on the preceding 11 days of February was admitted as an attorney at law by Supreme Court in the city of Albany. He had journeyed there the preceding day stopping over night at the Mansion House.

Willis Eckert of Bushkill Heights, who since his sister died some 14 months ago, has kept lone vigil on the old homestead. The devoted brother and sister, who never married, lived devotedly together and kept the farm in rotation for nearly 35 years after the death of their father and mother. Mr. Eckert is seen daily at the post office at mail time. He expects to raise a flock of turkeys this year as usual.

Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow, premier turkey rancher of the community, set the first incubator of the season Monday containing 102 eggs. Mr. Every's goal this year is 400 turkeys, double the number of last season.

The Wednesday quilting of the Ladies' Aid will be held either at the church or at the home of one of the members.

Nile Kolgan and a Mr. Horton, Lackawack sawmill men, were here Sunday on the lookout for a sawmill carriage. Mr. Kolgan stated that there are plenty of mills for sale with steam boiler and engine attached. Steam power he said is getting to be a thing of the past on account of the rigid state inspection restrictions.

The condition of John Bell on Monday at Kingston Hospital was reported favorable.

Earl Kirn late Shokan Heights farmer, now of Port Ewen visited former home friends on Sunday.

Friends are pleased to note that Mrs. Etta McMillen has returned to her old home at Brodhead. Nathan Eckert, her brother, and James Gordon, oldest grandson are keeping her company.

Mrs. Edward Winkler of North Main street underwent an emergency operation Monday at Benedictine Hospital. Her many home friends feel keenly for her welfare. Mrs. Lamen Healey is caring for her baby.

Work was resumed Tuesday on the road repairs started late in the week over the hill leading from the Wateson Hollow Inn. Protruding rocks along the sides and in the roadbed have been blasted. After grading a shale dressing will be applied.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

April 18, 1914.—Henry J. Hoffman's general store and meat market and two houses at Binnewater totally destroyed by fire.

Death of Thomas McDonough.

April 18, 1924.—The Ulster County Girl Scout Council announced the acquisition of a new camp site at Wallkill. Planned to open the camp on July 5.

Mrs. Lowber, wife of the Rev. Howard D. Lowber of St. Mark's A. M. E. Church on Foxhall avenue, died at the parsonage on Jansen avenue.

An Ulster county branch of the Holland Society formed here with William J. Turck as president.

Mrs. Margaret J. Roosa installed worthy high priestess of Judea Shrine, Order of the White Shrine.

WITTENBERG.

Wittenberg, April 18.—Mrs. Julia Short and Mrs. Chester Patten left on Sunday to spend a few weeks in Chicago.

Mrs. F. Franckling and daughter, Helen, of Lake Hill, also Mrs. Douglas Shultis and daughter, Gloria, of Woodstock were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hogan recently.

Miss Olive DeGraff and Victor Shultis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Van Keuren of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Anderson of Brooklyn are spending a few days at their cottage in this place.

Mrs. James Maribello of Mt. Vernon has returned home after spending a few days in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zeeley and children of Kingston were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Short on Sunday.

The W. W. Society will meet at the home of Mrs. James A. Shultis on Wednesday, May 2.

Card Party.

A public card party will be held by the ladies of Circle No. 2 of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Comforter Thursday evening, April 19, at 8:15 in the church hall, Wynkoop Place.

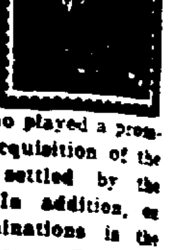
Carbon

Carbon is one of the most widespread substances in Nature, and every plant and every animal that exists contains this element. Some of the oldest rocks in the world contain beds of black graphite, a form of carbon that may once have been part of a living organism.

the WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Three hundred years ago the groups of islands in the West Indies north of the coast of Venezuela became the Dutch colony of Curacao. Today that fact has been made the prime reason for issuing a commemorative group of 17 stamps.

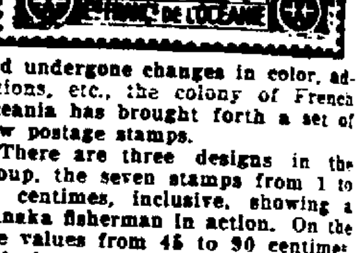


Pictured thereon are large portraits of the men who played a prominent part in the acquisition of the colony, originally settled by the Spanish in 1499. In addition, on three of the denominations is the sailing ship Johannes van Walbeeck.

The stamps are similar in design to the William the Silent issue of 1933, with denominations that start at 1 cent and run through 2.50 gulden. Except for the two higher values, each group of three stamps is identical in the subjects they illustrate.

French Oceania

For the first time since the issue of 1913-15, which in the meanwhile had undergone changes in color, additions, etc., the colony of French Oceania has brought forth a set of new postage stamps.



There are three designs in the group, the seven stamps from 1 to 20 centimes, inclusive, showing a Kanaka fisherman in action. On the five values from 45 to 90 centimes, inclusive, is pictured a Tahitian girl reclining on the beach, while on the five others, 1 to 2 francs, are two totem-like idols, male and female.

New Dollar Stamp

Whether the new dollar stamp to be issued by the U. S. postoffice department for use on the license of a hunter seeking game birds will be given a catalog classification has not yet been determined. The stamp, to be available at all county seat post offices and at a number of others, will be necessary when the migratory bird conservation act becomes effective next June 16.

If it is decided to catalog the stamp, compilers say that it will fall within the revenue classification, although they are likewise of the belief that it comes within the realm of a "tax-paid" issue, not generally included in the lists.

Belgium's Sunday Label

On all of the issues of Belgium from 1893 through 1912-13 there is in addition to the stamp itself a tab at the bottom, separated from the main design by perforations. To philatelists it is known as the "Sunday label," because it bears in French and Flemish the inscription, "Do not deliver on Sunday."

The purpose of the label was to leave it to the discretion of the sender of a letter whether or not he wanted it delivered on Sunday. If he desired Sunday delivery, he tore the tab off, if not it stayed in position.

Collectors, generally, regard the stamps bearing the label in toto, whether used or unused, as slightly more valuable than those without.

Commemorative Requests

Two requests for U. S. commemorative stamps, one a set in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America and the other a single stamp in memory of Old Ironsides, have been advanced.

The Philatelic Club of Junior High School Number Three (Trenton, New Jersey) is sponsoring the first cachet by a junior high school organization, to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Trenton as the capital of the United States, on May 2, 1934. Only standard-size, stamped, and self-addressed envelopes should be sent to the address below.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

THE likelihood of much "reform" legislation at this session of congress grows more and more remote.

"Recovery" still is the key word on capitol hill. Emergency enactments, running for a limited period, get the call. Bills for permanent changes in the industrial and social order are shoved into the background.

Business interests have been flooding the capital with complaints that this is not the time for those regulatory steps which President Roosevelt favors eventually. The assertion is that further action now would confuse the outlook by frightening business just when it is on the upgrade.

Unquestionably that plea has been having its effect in congress. The rewriting of the stock market bill (although it still has more force than Wall Street would like) and postponement of commodities exchange regulation are but two major examples.

That explains also why there is so much sentiment for a May adjournment. The idea is to relieve the country of much of the present uncertainty over the immediate future.

* * *

Utilities Talk Widening

WHAT to do about public utilities is one subject already assured of prolonged consideration at the next session. Demands for public ownership are sure to figure prominently.

The federal trade commission is nearing the end of a six-year investigation which has turned up surprising evidence about utility financing and operation.

The federal power commission, under a recently-adopted congressional resolution, will report on utility rates the country over and how they compare under public and private ownership.

A house committee is gathering expert opinion as to the need for regulating utility holding companies more closely. The Tennessee valley venture is progressing to a point where some conclusions regarding it may be drawn a few months hence.

Besides, President Roosevelt entered the White House with some rather definite opinions of his own. He is on record as favoring not only close regulation, but public ownership where regulation fails. The left-wingers in congress include many public ownership men in their ranks, and once the subject is opened it will be difficult to foresee the legislative outcome.

* * *

Program Left For Future

THERE is one school of thought which greatly regrets seeing action on these matters postponed.

That was apparent when so many senators—within a dozen of a majority—voted for the much higher La Follette income surtax rates, amid talk of a "redistribution of wealth."

Those who want to make permanent sweeping changes now foresee that such changes may not be easy to attain, once the nation has become more prosperous and contented.

At the moment, however, the "no's" have it. Unless there is a striking reversal of sentiment, congress will quit before summer comes, with most of the Roosevelt long-range program still left for the future.

Presbytery Hears Reports of Work

presented a brief report on the board of foreign missions of the church. He stated that from figures he had received from the national board it would close the year without a deficit and that this year but 10 new missionaries would be sent out into the foreign field.

On Christian Education

The Rev. Harold Kerschner of Poughkeepsie submitted a report on Christian education and said that reports received from the churches in the Presbytery showed that Sunday school work and attendance during the past year had more than held up its own. He recommended that this fall the churches in the Presbytery hold spiritual emphasis conferences. The recommendation was placed in the hands of the committee to work out the details.

The question of holding meetings, one on each side of the Hudson river, for the men of the officials boards of the churches was also discussed and left in the hands of a committee to perfect plans.

C. E. Convention.

The Rev. Mr. Swartz called attention to the State Christian Endeavor convention to be held in Newburgh this year. The convention opens on June 28 and closes on July 1. The Newburgh churches were planning to make the convention one of the biggest ever held.

Young Peoples' Conference.

The Rev. Mr. Swartz also reported that a successful fall conference for young people had been held last fall and recommended that a similar conference be held this fall. The recommendation met the approval of Presbytery and a committee will be appointed by the moderator to have charge. The Rev. Mr. Dickerson was appointed chairman of the committee.

Pensions and Relief.

The committee on pensions and relief recommended that, if each church in the Presbytery contributed 5 per cent of the gifts to benevolences to the board of pensions it would have sufficient funds to carry on its work. The report was adopted.

"Change in Hour."

The Rev. Mr. McKinley made the suggestion that the hour of meeting for the October meeting be changed to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon followed by supper and an evening session. He said that it would make it possible for more elders to attend the Presbytery meeting with a change in hour of meeting.

His suggestion, however, met with opposition on the part of some of the ministers, who have to travel over a hundred miles to attend Presbytery and after considerable discussion the matter was put to a vote and defeated.

Several routine matters were disposed of and Presbytery then adjourned.

PLATTEKILL GRANGE VISITED BY COUNTY DEPUTY WEAVER

Plattekill, April 18—A large number of local and visiting patrons attended the regular meeting of the Grange Saturday evening, April 14. J. Wells Weaver, Ulster county Grange deputy, was present and congratulated Plattekill Grange on being the offspring of the first Grange organized in Ulster county. This parent Grange was organized at Ardonia in 1876, just eight years after Father Kelly started the first Grange in the United States. Among the few remaining identifications of this Grange is the old Grange certificate framed and hanging on the wall of this hall. This certificate is signed by John B. Quick as Master, and W. L. Munson as secretary.

Albert Kurdt, Ulster County Farm Bureau manager, gave a most interesting talk during the lecturer's hour on "Soil," giving many of the elements found in the soil and demonstrating a soil test for lime. John Hecht read an excellent original paper on "Soils and Their Use to The Farmer."

Tuesday evening, April 17, the first and second degree team will confer degrees at Montgomery Grange. Among those attending will be Viola Loertcher, Gertrude Kopaskie, Florence Hartney, Muriel Ward, Doris Diener, Evelyn Pressler, Melissa Blauvelt, Wilson Edmunds, Stanley Doski, Herman Cook, Gordon Lozier, Milton Van Duzer, Edgar Cronk, Jr., George Hallock and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins.

Plattekill Grange has accepted an invitation to meet with Lake Katrine Grange at their meeting of May 7. Quite a number of local patrons are expecting to attend this meeting.

The three-act comedy, "Where's Grandma," will be presented in the Grange hall, Friday evening at eight o'clock. The dramatic committee and members of the cast have tickets for sale.

The service and hospitality committee will hold a dance in the Grange hall Friday evening, May 4. Music will be furnished by the "Aces of Rhythm."

Northern Lights

The northern lights are thought to be due to electrical action on the rarefied gases of the upper atmosphere, and connected in some way with the earth's magnetism.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tang which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD.
Time is Eastern Standard.

New York, April 18—A football broadcast in the spring, somewhat of a rare treat for network listeners, is going to be different not only in season but in the manner of playing.

The particular game, between two teams of Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y., will be described for WJZ-NBC on the afternoon of May 5. The schedule calls for the playing of the first quarter under the present rules, the second quarter under the proposed new rules, and the third and fourth quarters with 12-man teams on both sides. The twelfth man will be a field general directing the play but taking no part therein.

TRY THESE TONIGHT (WEDNESDAY):

WEAF-NBC—8—Jack Pearl; 9—Fred Allen's Hour; 10:30—Ghosts of Britain; 11:30—Rubinoff Orchestra.

WABC-CBS—8:30—Albert Spalding, Violin; 9—Nino Martini; 9:30—Burns and Allen; 10:30—Republican Reaction, Rep. Reed.

WJZ-NBC—9—The Cuckoos; 9:30—John Charles Thomas; 10—Lopez Revue and George Raft; 10:30—Jack Denny Orchestra and Harry Richman.

WHAT TO EXPECT THURSDAY:

WEAF-NBC—1:30 p. m.—Merchants' Association Luncheon; 4—Winners of Naumburg Foundation Audition.

WABC-CBS—2—Ann Leaf, Organ; 7:45—Curtis Symphony.

WJZ-NBC—11 a. m., D. A. R. Congress; 11:45 a. m., and 2:15 p. m.—Boston Marathon; 2—Washington Cherry Blossom Festival.

FREE BUS TO SAWKILL-RUBY ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT

One of Von Gonsic's busses will leave Church Hill, Eddyville, at 7:45, Mrs. Weirich's Twin Maple House at 7:50, and from in front of Glennon's Store, Wilbur, at 8 o'clock to take free all who appear to the Sawkill-Ruby minstrel show at St. Joseph's Hall.

Program begins 8:15. Dancing at close of entertainment till midnight.

"40 Years Old and How I Feel It!"

Forty often starts a person downward because at that age the old intestinal machinery starts slowing up. A sort of intestinal stagnation sets in and, just like scum on a stagnant pool, poisons begin to form.

The poisons are absorbed by the entire system and they make themselves felt in a dozen different ways—in acid-stomach, with sourness and gas pains; in pains and aches about the body; in depleted strength and vitality and a constant tired feeling; in ragged nerves, with sleepless nights and blue, discouraged days.

Every person of forty or over should take special pains to police his intestinal tract. That is, he should do something to keep down acidity and check putrefaction. There is nothing better for the purpose than Magnesia Oxoids. Magnesia Oxoids are an entirely new way of counteracting acidity and food decay.

They do not dope you but, instead, release pure oxygen within the intestinal tract. Oxygen has been found to be a marvelous anti-acid and antiseptic. In a perfectly natural way it combats acidity and putrefaction and keeps the whole intestinal tract sweet and clean—and internal cleanliness is the secret of virile health.

Try Magnesia Oxoids—two after each meal and two before retiring at night—and see how much better you feel. You'll think you've suddenly dropped ten years. All good druggists sell Magnesia Oxoids.

Lightning Hits Plane, Four Persons Killed

Dallas, Tex., April 18 (AP)—Struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm, an airplane fell, carrying two women and two men to their deaths 20 miles northwest of here late last night.

The victims were Harry Fowler, Dallas, the pilot, two passengers named Jack Poole and Lillian Rhodes, and an unidentified woman.

Muddy roads, and flooded streams, prevented motor cars and ambulances from reaching the scene.

Farmers told of seeing the blazing ship dive into the soggy soil, explode and burn up within a few minutes. The victims were believed to have been killed instantly.

C. D. Russell, a farmer, walked nine miles to the nearest telephone to report the accident.

Annual Meeting of Y. W. C. A. Auxiliary

(Official Report)

Mrs. Irving Scott had charge of devotions at the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. held on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Rufus Kelder reported 11 sheets, 15 pillow slips mended and one towel made during the past month. Her annual report mentioned 63 pillow slips, 22 sheets, 8 counterpanes and 7 towels mended.

The president, Mrs. G. H. DuBois, reported that 24 Hi-Y suppers have been served to an average of 706 boys or individual meals for the year. Mrs. DuBois also reported that the mite box passed around at meetings had netted $7.45. $5.00 has been spent for flowers and other items leaving a balance to date of $2.45.

The treasurer, Mrs. Frank Schwab, reported annual receipts of $503.06, disbursements have totaled $390.18, leaving a balance in the treasury of $112.88.

The annual report of the secretary was also given.

Mrs. Rufus Kelder, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate which was unanimously elected: President, Mrs. George H. DuBois; first vice president, Mrs. William A. Longyear, assisted by Mrs. Marie Plusch; second vice president, Mrs. Irving Scott; recording secretary, Mrs. W. R. Anderson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Schoonmaker; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Schwab. These officers all held over from last year.

Secretary Schoonmaker expressed his appreciation of the tremendous help the Auxiliary has been in the work of the Y. M. C. A. during the past year and ever since he has been at the head of the organization. Mr. Schoonmaker presented E. R. Fike of New York city, campaign manager of the Y. M. C. A. drive, who addressed the Auxiliary, stressing the importance of keeping up our religious institutions during the depression.

Miss Jeanne DuBois recited a humorous selection, "Aunty Doleful's Visit", which was much enjoyed. A vote of thanks was extended to Miss DuBois and to Mr. Fike.

Report of Y. W. C. A. Auxiliary from April [illegible] to April [illegible] 1934.

A meeting has been held [illegible] month except in the months of July and August [illegible] our president, Mrs. George H. DuBois.

Each meeting has been opened with devotions [illegible] of Mrs. T. H. Edmondson, [illegible] Secretary Schoonmaker, Mrs. T. H. Edmondson, Mrs. N. H. Fuller, Mrs. Cora Drake and Mrs. Marie Plusch, have served as leaders of devotions.

The programs for our meetings have been arranged by Mrs. C. S. Schoonmaker and Mrs. N. H. Fuller. In May, a very pleasing children's program was rendered by Muriel Madeline and Dorothy Smith, Helen Hansen and Janet Schoonmaker, accompanied by Mrs. Warren Smith and Mrs. C. S. Schoonmaker. In June, Mrs. D. N. Secore entertained with an account of our visit to the Century of Progress Fair at Chicago. Miss Ethel Jackson, accompanied by Mrs. William Jackson, sang two solos at the September meeting.

In October Francis Phillips told about a most enjoyable six weeks' trip which he, with eight other young men, took in a truck furnished by the Loomis Foundation, with cooking and sleeping accommodations. Mrs. Schoonmaker, in November, read us of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in foreign lands and of the international Y. M. C. A. In December, Christmas carols were sung and a Christmas message written by Dr. Henry Van Dyke was read by Mrs. Cora Drake. The January program consisted of two piano solos played most artistically by Mrs. Julius Gifford and two delightfully rendered contralto solos sung by Mrs. M. H. Fuller, accompanied by Mrs. Gifford. In February, two Lincoln poems were read by Mrs. W. R. Anderson and in March, Mrs. D. N. Secore gave an interesting account of her visit to the 53rd conference of the board of managers of the M. E. Church Home Missionary Society, held at Dansville, Illinois.

Refreshments were served at the annual meeting last April, and the June meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Glenerie. Each member brought her lunch, the tables being set on the porch of the Charles Ramsey Lodge.

Funds were raised this year by a turkey dinner with fancy table, a cafeteria supper, two card parties at private homes, serving various dinners and meals for the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations.

A pledge of $200 has been paid and $50 extra donated towards Y. M. C. A. expenses. Silver has been purchased for the camp, also kitchen supplies for the Y. M. C. A. Paint was bought for the buildings at the camp. The Auxiliary served the meals for the annual Y. M. C. A. campaign and for other activities.

A mite box passed at meetings enabled flowers to be sent upon illness and death of members.

Only three new members have been added and several lost by death and resignation. Of the 222 names upon the roll, doubtless some no longer rate themselves as members but no formal resignation has been received so the names are carried.

The small attendance at meetings in comparison with other years has been somewhat disheartening. Old Man Depression has hit the Auxiliary along with our churches and other organizations, but I read recently in The Freeman a tiny poem. It encouraged me, so I pass it on. It is called "The Buffeting of Fate." The author was not given.

"Then take this honey for the bitterest cup—
There is no failure, save in giving up;
No real fall so long as someone tries,
For seeming setbacks make the strong man wise;
There's no defeat in truth, save from within Unless you're beaten there, you're bound to win."

Respectfully submitted,
BESSIE O. ANDERSON,
Recording Secretary.

ROCHESTER CENTER

Rochester Center, April 18—Many friends from here attended the birthday surprise party at the home of Miss Elizabeth Bell in honor of her two sons, Aaron and Charlie, Saturday evening. There were about 70 guests present. They enjoyed a pleasant evening of games. Refreshments were served. All wished Aaron and Charles many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Edgar Wilklow and little son have returned to their home in Whitfield after spending some time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Quick.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Allan are entertaining her sister, Mrs. Maud Creesey and little daughter of Long Island.

Mrs. John F. Bush is holding a public auction sale on Wednesday, April 25, at 12 o'clock noon.

Those who called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Van Gasbeck on Sunday evening were Mrs. Austin Quick and daughter, Edith, Leon Griswold and William Embree.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Griswold and son, Ralph, have returned to their home for the summer.

Mrs. Leroy Chrisey is spending some time with her sister in Middletown.

"Barn" English Storehouse

The word "barn," in old English referred only to a storehouse for barley.

Bigger and Better Hats

New York—Interviewing an internationally famous hairdresser a few days ago I learned that in his opinion heads should look as small as possible, that when there were many curls they should be close to the head. He prefers slick, flat rings to curls. Unless one has very pretty ears it is much better to cover at least part of them with curls. The tendency is to dress the hair higher, off the neck so that the hair at this point is brushed up, giving an entirely new line and one that better harmonizes with the new hats.

That large hats have returned is no longer news. What "skimmers" the girls are wearing just now? Molyneux has made an enormous sailor, very flat in the crown and trimmed center front. It is one of the outstanding successes of the year. The best milliners show and believe in the large hat from now on. Naturally if you prefer the smaller types there is no one to say you nay but do have a big hat for big occasions.

That stripes are all over the place is startlingly apparent. It used to be that they were associated primarily with sports or at best spectators' sports costumes, but now one meets a whole parade of zebras in town. The one sketched is less self assertive than most and is an excellent foil for a very good-looking, warm-weather coat. Since we have acquired the habit of wearing coats it is necessary to have one, at least one that is going to be cool. Omitting the sleeves seems a pretty safe way to insure this. It might not be amiss to remind you of the new coat note, the printed coat to be worn with the plain dress instead of the other way about.

The Sailor Dramatized

If you make your entrance dramatic enough, you are bound to attract attention, and that is exactly what Molyneux did when he presented a cartwheel sailor of white pique during his spring opening. Straight and uncompromising, with self band and square self-covered buckle, this hat has drawn excited and admiring exclamations. It seems an instantaneous success, for its very dramatic possibilities have already made it a favorite among the clients of fashionable New York milliners.

Suiting the Awkward Age

Tweed makes the Norfolk influenced suit for a girl of 12 to 16 years.

The rough wool tweed single-breasted suit with windblown pockets for the "awkward age" is popular.

The companion suit at right is in a salt and pepper tweed. It follows the fashion for three-quarter length coat and is complemented by a linen blouse.

A variation of an old favorite for the girl of 7 to 12, the skirt in this instance being a suspender style and in checked wool, the blouse of white silk crepe de chine, and the jacket of plain navy wool.

Spring — In A Great White Way

Even without that deep and dreamy look in Ruby Keeler's eyes, the spirit of spring would find adequate expression in the hat and gloves she wears. The girlish-looking hat is of white organdy. The white organdy gloves have pleated gauntlets, making a filmy halo for well-dressed hands.

"STOCKING RUNS WERE DRIVING ME CRAZY"

"I BOUGHT GOOD STOCKINGS and couldn't understand why they went into runs all the time. My stocking bills were terribly high.

"ONE DAY A FRIEND began telling me how she cut down on runs by washing stockings with Lux instead of rubbing them with cake soap.

"I TOOK HER ADVICE and was amazed how much longer my stockings stayed like new. Lux cut down on runs and saved the color, too."

LUX preserves stocking elasticity—the silk gives instead of breaking into runs so often.

Avoid ordinary soaps that contain harmful alkali—avoid cake-soap rubbing. These weaken elasticity. Lux has no harmful alkali. Safe in water, safe in Lux!

WE WERE WAITING FOR THE FOOD FILE

IT HAS MADE REFRIGERATION A BETTER SERVANT IN THE HOME

YOU have a right to demand convenience and economy in every kitchen appliance and you will find both in Kelvinator's famous new Food File. Now you can actually "file" your foods in handsome chrome-fronted compartments. There is one for dairy products, one for fresh vegetables and greens, and one with three separately covered dishes for saving left-overs until they can be used. Proper refrigeration for each and an emphasis on food economy show how directly Kelvinator thinks in your terms.

The Food File alone is an overwhelming reason for your selection of Kelvinator, but don't forget that we are waiting to show you a score of other features such as the below-freezing Frost Chest, the World's Fastest Freezing Speed, the Pastry Set with refrigerated rolling pin, the special drinking water pitcher, and others which make Kelvinator the refrigerator with "a place for everything." See Kelvinator first. And ask about our Easy Payment Plan.

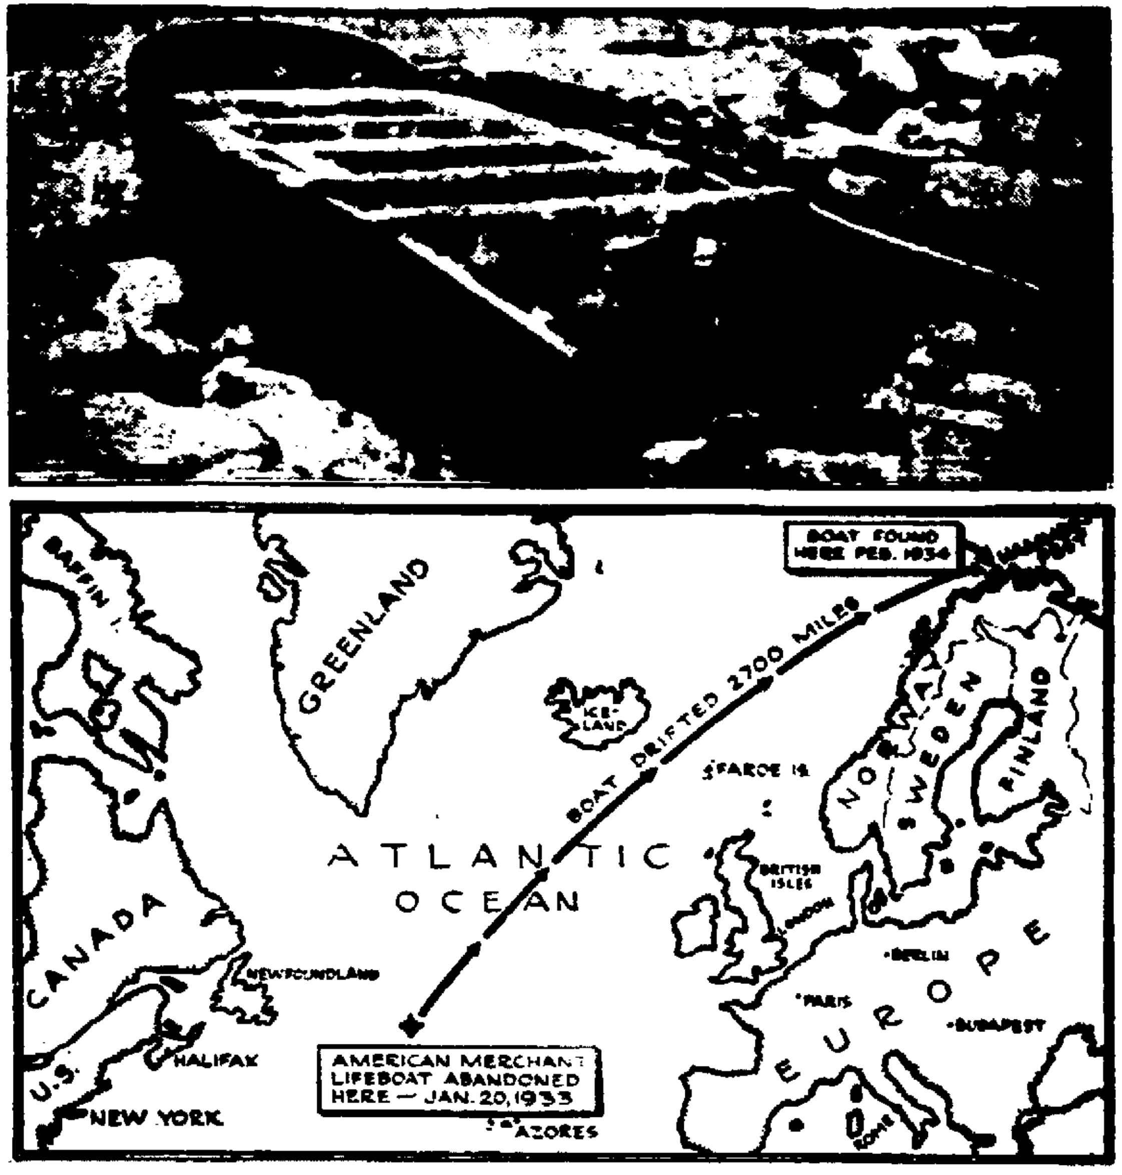
Rescue Boat Drifts a Year in the Atlantic



Lifeboat of the American Merchant, used to rescue 22 men from the British freighter Exeter City in January, 1933 as it appeared after drifting for thirteen months. Below is a diagram showing distance the boat covered.

IN January, 1933, Captain Giles Stedman, master of the American Merchant liner American Merchant, made a spectacular mid-Atlantic rescue of 22 men from the sinking British freighter Exeter City. He used a Lundin type lifeboat in the transfer of the shipwrecked sailors to his ship. The boat was damaged by pounding against the side of the American Merchant, however, and it was abandoned after the men had been hauled to safety. That occurred over a year ago, and until now nothing was heard of the boat.

But news of it has come from Norway. Lief Kristiansen and Asar Sombr, fishermen of Kjotvik, island of Soro, North Cape, were out in their small boat in February, and they noticed the lifeboat floating two and a half miles from ashore. A photograph and inventory of its contents were forwarded by the newspaper Aftenpost of Oslo to the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, which in turn referred it to Harry M. Durning, Collector of Customs at New York, for identification. Captain Stedman, now master of the American Banker, arrived in New York recently, and from the data supplied by the Aftenpost, recognized the boat as the one abandoned after the rescue.

The Exeter City rescue occurred in latitude 46.56 N. longitude 38.29 W. on January 20, 1933, and Kjotvik where the derelict was recovered, is in latitude 70.45 N. longitude 23.40 E.—2700 miles away.

The time has come, my sweetheart said, to speak of many things

Margie—Sure. But they're okeh for two.

It's peculiar but no one seems to have evolved the idea of kidnaping a crooner.

Jerry—The trouble was the match was out.

One thing that might help would be to have more of this NRA money go up in smoke—via the factory chimney.

The reason that the bride's mother always weeps at the wedding, is because she knows her husband.

Marie—I must say I don't think much of your fiance.

Betty—I don't want you to.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

A Film That Sees Like An Eye

IT has often been said that in scientific research one thing leads to another, by which it is meant than one improvement in a process or a material is often used as the basis for newer experiments. This was true in the old battle between the iron-clad warship and the steel projectile. When armor was made that kept out the projectile, newer projectiles were made that pierced the armor, and so on.

One of chemistry's newest contributions to photography came about the same way. Panchromatic film made possible the use of incandescent lighting in making motion pictures. Then that sort of light necessitated improvements in the film. And from that demand was born the superior panchromatic film which for the first time achieved a relative color sensitiveness having a response throughout the spectrum almost exactly like the human eye, recording the visual brightness of reds and greens most accurately in gray tones of silver.

Portrait artists, cinematographers, color photographers, and other technicians who demand the utmost in photographic quality now use this film.

ZENA

Zena, April 18—Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sheldon that they are still enjoying their visit to many relatives and friends in Connecticut.

Frank Tichenor and sister-in-law, Miss Anne Reinhold, motored up from Staten Island Sunday morning to their farm on Chestnut Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Braendley and Mr. Schuster motored up on Saturday evening from Staten Island to spend the week-end at their home here.

John Varney spent the week-end at Patmos and Martin Young is spending the week there.

There will be a dance at the Zena Country Club on Saturday evening, April 28, when music will be furnished by the "Crossroad Mountaineers." The public is most cordially invited.

Miss Edith Balldinger has a position in Kingston with the Chevrolet offices.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harcourt and Mrs. Dan Lynch attended the concert at Kingston High School given by the Mendelssohn Club, also the supper and dance at the Governor Clinton following the concert.

Four young ladies from Zena took part in the Prisma Follies given in the Kingston High School on Friday and Saturday. They were Misses Julia Thaisz, Edna Holumzer, and Caroline and Lillian Van Etten.

Sunday there was a splendid attendance for services in the Reformed Church which were in charge of the Rev. John B. Steketee, who gave an inspiring sermon on "Prayer for the Christian Ministry." Solo by the organist, "How Can I But Love Him." In the evening the Christion Endeavor met under the leadership of Albert Holumzer.

Next Sunday the services in the little church on the hill will be in charge of Albert Shultis, who is superintendent of the Bethany Mission in Kingston and an excellent speaker. Friends and neighbors are invited to join the members in hearing Mr. Shultis next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holumzer and their infant daughter motored from Connecticut Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Simmons have moved up to Zena and will now supervise the erection of their new home.

Mrs. Alfred Van Etten spent the week-end at their home here and reports Lester Sagendorf as gaining very nicely from his severe illness of pneumonia.

Woodstock Bus Goes Off Road.

Woodstock, April 18.—Tuesday evening one of the Woodstock busses went off the road in the vicinity of the Jonathan Apple monument on the Bearsville road. The extent of the accident was not learned, although it is believed no one was injured. The Bearsville road has suffered greatly from frost and the surface in the vicinity of the accident has become a bog. The hazard to motorists is probably one of the worst in Ulster county and automobilists will do well, particularly if driving at night, to go very cautiously over the two-mile strip from Woodstock to Bearsville. The Woodstock-Bearsville road has been surveyed for a new concrete surface. The new highway is contemplated to Saugerties. No official word has been reported that construction will be done in 1934.

Sundown Stories

The Strange Party

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mrs. Quacker was right on time at the party, and the other Quackers of Quackerville came along too.

"Good afternoon," said Mrs. Quacko, as she waddled forth to meet them. "I want to introduce you to my good friends, the elephants."

But Mrs. Quacker had not needed to hear what Mrs. Quacko was saying.

"Quack quack," she quacked, "it's true. They are elephants. Aren't they huge? And they seem quite friendly, too."

Mrs. Quacko was paying great attention to Mrs. Quacker to see her surprise.

"Indeed they are very friendly," she returned. "At first it was hard for us to understand each other's ways, but now we know how to share the pond, and we've learned a number of quite fine tricks."

Mrs. Quacko Duck and the other ducks got on top of the elephants' trunks, and then they got on their backs and the elephants splashed right down into the pond.

After they had performed the tricks for the Quackers who stood along the bank the elephants passed around brook sandwiches in their trunks, and then they left so the ducks could have the pond.

"You can see from here that we have a circus, with tents and wagons and people and animals, quack, quack," said Mrs. Quacko.

"My dear," said Mrs. Quacker, "I only know important creatures. That's why I've always considered you my very best friend."

Oh, yes, Mrs. Quacker was impressed.

Some Jumping Animals

Some famous animal jumpers are the kangaroo, who is able to jump between 15 and 20 feet on the level—and can easily overleap the ordinary hedges and fences. The springbok clears between 30 and 40 feet at a jump—and the flying squirrel travels about fifty feet in the air.

Talks to parents

Destroying Prestige

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The parents of a certain little town had suddenly awakened to the fact that their schools were not being satisfactorily run, and so undertook to look into the matter and make a change in their method and management. Their objections to existing conditions were quite justified, but their mode of reform left much to be desired.

The local papers carried headlines describing the bitter fight which ensued. Views were aired, including attacks on school board, superintendent and principal. Even the teachers came in for some of the censure. Finally the children were drawn into the battle, as valuable witnesses of poor teaching and corporal punishment.

When the smoke cleared away and normal conditions were re-established, the offending members of the faculty had left and a new deal was inaugurated. The parents returned to their various occupations, and presently the same old state of affairs was in progress, but with the added misfortune that the children had lost their respect for the schools. They realized too well that a little judicious pressure brought to bear at home might overturn the system once more.

It is the duty of every parent to feel a lively interest in the schooling of his children. But it must be intelligent and consistent, not a sporadic flare-up colored by emotion. Furthermore, to involve the children in the matter is always a mistake, however crying the abuses.

If the child is to continue in the school, he must feel that it is approved and supported by his parents. Otherwise his education will suffer from a consciousness of his parents' criticisms, and his respect for all teachers will be lessened by his knowledge of the failure of their predecessors.

DR. WYNNE TO ADDRESS DAIRY MEETING APRIL 24.

Dr. Shirley S. Wynne, former health commissioner of New York city, will be the main speaker at a county-wide dairy meeting Tuesday evening, April 24, at 8 o'clock, at the court house in Kingston. The meeting is being planned by the Farm Bureau dairy committee, of which C. L. Allen of Kingston is chairman. All dairymen, consumers and distributors are cordially invited.

In addition to the talk by Dr. Wynne a complete report will be given on the proposed dairy production control program of the agricultural adjustment administration. Other features are being planned which will make this an outstanding meeting in every respect. It will probably be the last big meeting planned by the committee and a large crowd is expected.

Labradorite

The finest specimens of labradorite, beautifully iridescent member of the feldspar family, come from certain sections of the Labrador coast, which are ice-bound most of the year. It was first discovered in 1770.

STATE OF NEW YORK, SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER—NELSON BENSON, Plaintiff, against JACK PERKEL and TESSIE PERKEL, his wife, NEW YORK AMERICAN, INC., and KINGSTON LUMBER CORPORATION, Defendants.

NOTICE OF SALE

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, made and entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 6th day of April, 1934, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, on the 26th day of May, 1934, at twelve o'clock noon, at the front door of the County Court House, Wall Street, Kingston, New York, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

"All that parcel of land situate in the town of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York, being on both sides of the State Highway leading from the Eddyville Bridge through the village of St. Remy to Rifton, and is bounded generally as follows: On the north by Phillip Fisher and the cross Road leading from Ulster Park Road to the aforesaid State Highway; east by lands of Charles E. Schultz; west by lands of Leon Van Wagner; south by house lot formerly of John Remis, (now Hanson), lands of John Burdyan and Charles E. Schultz, containing one hundred and nine and one-half acres, (109½) be the same more or less.

For a more complete description reference is hereby made to a contemplated survey of the premises to be made in April of the year 1929, and such survey is to govern the boundaries, distance and content thereof.

Being the same premises formerly owned by Charles E. Thompson and by him devised to Charles L. Thompson the father of the party of the first part, and conveyed by the said Charles L. Thompson and wife to the said party of the first part by deed dated September 1, 1927 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber of Deeds No. 525 at page 382.

And also being the same premises described in the following Deeds: Matthew Van Acken and Jane his wife, and Calvin W. Marshall and Anna, his wife, to Elliot Thompson, which Deed is dated January 2, 1826, and recorded in Liber 28 of Deeds, page 96.

The following resolution, reported by the Laws and Rules Committee offered by Alderman Renn and seconded by Alderman Cornwell.

WHEREAS, the Local Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration of the City of Kingston, has filed with the Common Council of said City a report in writing, bearing date April 4th, 1934, setting forth, among other things, the work anticipated to be accomplished by the said Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, during the month of April, 1934, and further setting forth the cost of said anticipated work to the City of Kingston, and,

WHEREAS, the said Local Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, will require not to exceed Fifteen Thousand ($15,000.00) Dollars in addition to the amounts assumed by either the Federal or State Governments, or both, for all the cost of such anticipated work to be accomplished during the month of April, 1934, and

WHEREAS, the Finance, Ways and Means Committee of the Common Council has heretofore examined the proposed undertakings of the said Local Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, and found them suitable to afford unemployment relief, and has determined that the said Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, will require an appropriation in the sum of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000.00) in addition to the amounts to be expended by either the Federal or State Governments, or both, for all the cost of such anticipated work to be accomplished during the month of April, 1934.

Whereas, an emergency exists in the City of Kingston, N. Y.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the provisions of the Statutes of the State of New York in such cases made and provided, and in accordance with the provisions of the Charter of the City of Kingston, be it

RESOLVED, that the sum of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000.00) or so much thereof as shall be necessary, be and the same hereby is appropriated for the Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, of Kingston, N. Y., to defray the City's proportion of all of the costs of anticipated work to be accomplished during the month of April, 1934, and that the City of Kingston, N. Y., borrow and raise in the name of and on the faith and credit of said City the sum of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000.00) or so much thereof as shall be necessary, by issuing its notes or certificates of indebtedness, and it is

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Mayor and City Clerk, be and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to borrow in the name of, and upon the name and faith of the City of Kingston, N. Y., the sum of Fifteen Thousand ($15,000.00) Dollars, or so much thereof as the Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration shall require, at such times and in such amounts as required by the Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration of said City, issuing notes or certificates of indebtedness therefor; that said notes or certificates of indebtedness shall become due and payable on the 1st day of June, 1935, or sooner, in the event that the City issues bonds to defray the expense of the operation of the Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration and the Local Civil Works Administration, and shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six (6%) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of October, 1934, the first day of April, 1935, and on date of maturity, and that the Mayor and City Clerk be and they hereby are authorized and empowered to sign said notes or certificates of indebtedness, and affix the Corporate Seal of the City of Kingston thereto and deliver the same to the City Treasurer, who is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to sign and deliver the same upon receipt of the proceeds thereof, and to place said amount to the credit of the Local Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, of the City of Kingston, N. Y., and it is further

RESOLVED, that the proceeds of said notes or certificates of indebtedness be used by the Local Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration of the City of Kingston, N. Y., for the payment of the City's proportion of all of the costs of the anticipated work to be accomplished during the month of April, 1934, as set forth in the report of the said Local Works Division, of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, to the Common Council, under date of April 4th, 1934, and for no other purpose, and it is FURTHER RESOLVED, that there be raised, levied and assessed upon the taxable property in the City of Kingston, N. Y., in the year, 1935, moneys sufficient to pay the principal and interest which will become due on the notes or certificates of indebtedness in such year.

Transmitted to the Mayor this 6th day of April, 1934.

E. J. DEMPSEY,
City Clerk.

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER—F. B. MATTHEWS & CO., INC., Plaintiff, against JOE PERRY, also known as JOSEPH PERRY, and PASQUALINE PERRY, Defendants.

IN PURSUANCE and by virtue of an Execution duly issued to me on March 13th, 1934, upon a Judgment recovered in the above entitled action on the 13th day of December, 1933, I, JOHN H. SAXE, Sheriff of the County of Ulster, New York, will sell at public auction at the main entrance to the County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, on the 27th day of April, 1934, at twelve o'clock noon on that day as one parcel and property all the right, title and interest of the said defendants, Joe Perry, also known as Joseph Perry, and Pasqualine Perry, in and to the following lands and premises, particularly described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND situate in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, at a place called Ponckhockie, situated on the Easterly side of Abruyn Street, and known and distinguished upon a map of the property of George North and W. B. Crane, made by D. Ferguson in 1854, and now on file in Ulster County Clerk's Office, as lot number seventeen on said map, bounded northerly by lot number nineteen; southerly by lots numbers thirteen and fourteen; westerly by Abruyn Street; and easterly by lot number eighteen. Said lot number seventeen is fifty feet in front on Abruyn Street, and fifty feet in width in the rear and runs in depth one half the block supposed to be one hundred twelve and one half feet more or less.

Being the same premises conveyed by Thomas Cornell and wife to Isabella Gill by deed dated January 6, 1890, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 289 at page 357, which deed contained the following agreement: "The said party of the second part agrees to and with the said parties of the first part, their heirs and assigns, to ever keep them harmless from any and all expenses in fencing any part of the premises hereinbefore described," and this deed is given subject to said agreement.

Being part of the premises conveyed by Isabella Gill to Walter N. Gill by deed dated April 18th, 1914, and recorded in said Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 468 at page 180.

Being the same premises as described in a deed from Walter N. Gill and Margaret Gill, his wife, to Joseph Perry, dated May 3, 1924, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on May 22nd, 1924, in Book 468 of Deeds at page 600.

Dated March 13th, 1934.

JOHN H. SAXE,
Sheriff of Ulster County.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—George Brent's reconciliation with the studio against which he had been battling came shortly before Ruth Chatterton, in New York, announced their separation.

Whether or not the two events were merely coincidental, Hollywood was left free to conjecture—in the absence of more illuminating statements from the two principals—on an interesting question.

To what extent had professional differences affected the domestic disagreement between these two who owed their romance to a meeting which might not have come about but for the screen?

The Chatterton-Brent marriage in August less than two years ago was the fruition of a romance begun and fostered inside studio walls—peculiarly a movie romance.

Her Leading Man

Ruth Chatterton and Ralph Forbes, married before Ruth came to Hollywood, had been denying a separation although frequent reports of divorce had been heard. Brent, young Irish actor who had fared indifferently in films, came to the studio to take a test for the role of leading man in the Chatterton film, "The Rich Are Always With Us."

Ruth herself read him his cues, and attended the screening of his test. She emerged from the projection room more than mildly enthusiastic.

Brent became her leading man, and Ruth left home to live in her studio bungalow. He again supported the star in "The Crash," after which she sailed for Europe.

There followed one of Hollywood's most notable "friendly divorces." At first the plan was for Ruth to file suit, but finally Ralph was persuaded to go to Reno. It was all done in very gentlemanly fashion, with expressions of regret and admiration, and after Brent met Ruth in New York and she became Mrs. Brent, the Forbes-Chatterton-Brent friendship persisted.

Brent Future Brightens

Under contract to the same studio, Ruth and George played together in two more films, "Lily Turner" and "Female." Between these he had acted with other stars, but his breach with Warner Brothers came when he refused to support Kay Francis in "Mandalay." He took his case unsuccessfully to court.

While Ruth, in New York, was announcing their separation, George was shaking hands, in Hollywood, with his studio bosses. Out in Burbank they think Brent was influenced by Ruth in many phases of his film career. They're looking now for a brighter Brent future.

Y. W. Plans for Annual Circus

All the girl reserve clubs of the Y. M. C. A. are having a busy week in preparation for their "big event" of the year, the annual circus which will be held in the new [illegible] auditorium on this Saturday, at 2:30 o'clock.

Those directing the affair assure us that it will be the "best ever" combining many attractive new features with the most popular of the former events, including such favorites as the clowns with their "Clash and Clatter Band," and the old friends, "Willie" the giraffe, "Jumbo," the elephant, the "hobby horses," and the ever popular tap dances.

The theme of the circus is woven around the story of "Alice in Wonderland" and one of the most charming numbers will be the "Alice dance" given by 16 girls all dressed in the blue gowns and little white aprons. Miss Jane Ball will be the real Alice of the performance, and will entertain with two solo dances. The [illegible] "Card Chorus" that Alice saw after she went through the Looking-glass will give an interesting drill, dressed in green and orange costumes, and ornamented with large playing-cards.

All of the dances and drills under the direction of Miss [illegible] Riccobono, who for the last four years has so ably directed these programs. The costuming is in charge of Miss Katherine Millard, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, and Miss Lillian Herdman.

Three sure things in a crazy world: Business, prices and taxes are going up.

"The Human Machine."

On Friday evening of this week the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the First Reformed Church will be held in the chapel at 8 o'clock. After the business meeting Dr. Harvey W. [illegible] will deliver an address choosing as his subject "The Human Machine." During the evening [illegible] and a social hour with refreshments will be enjoyed. The president would appreciate a large attendance.

Local Talent in 100 Years of Dress

Interest in the fashion review, 1834-1934, to be given at the new Municipal Auditorium Friday evening, April 27 is enhanced by the fact that the entire program will be given by local talent.

The many quaint and charming old costumes to be shown will be contributed from the homes of Kingston's early families and will be displayed by some of their equally charming descendants of the present day.

Mrs. Joseph McNelis will explain the various costumes as they are shown.

Among entertainment numbers on the program will be a minuet by Mrs. C. O. Fromer and Roger H. Loughran. The minuet is an arrangement by Mrs. Howard Lewis. Mrs. Henry Dunbar of Hurley will be heard in a group of songs and Miss Ann Herzog will read "Patterns," by Amy Lowell. There will be an original dance by Miss Beulah Phelps and John Davis of Saugerties.

To please varying tastes in music two orchestras will be on hand, led by Paul Zucca and Roger Baer. Following the program refreshments will be served by an attractive group of girls from the Kingston High School.

Dancing will begin at 10 o'clock.

BILLIARDS

Andrew Ponzi, pocket billiard champ, gave an excellent demonstration of his skill Tuesday at the Crown billiard parlor, when he defeated Tony Gentile, 125-67, and Freddie Planthaber, the local champion, 125-19. Ponzi's longest run, and the greatest ever seen in the city, was against Gentile, 106. Against Gentile the Philadelphia Italian went out on an unfinished run of 44, but continued to 106, when he scratched out purposely after a nine inning match.

Against Planthaber the champion tallied runs of 15, 57, 29, 11 and 20. The last run he continued up to 51 and then scratched out.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, April 18.—Mrs. McLoughlin and daughters of Wilkinburg, Pa., are guests of her sister, Mrs. A. J. Lea.

Mrs. Ward Hummell visited her sister, Mrs. Ralph Stearns, in Fleischmanns on Tuesday.

The Rev. G. B. Fear was reappointed to this charge for another year at the annual conference in New York city. The people of the church and community are happy to welcome Mr. Fear back.

A. J. Lea underwent an operation in the Kingston Hospital on Monday and is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hummell and son, Charles, visited relatives in Oneonta on Sunday.

Mrs. Leonard Ford is in the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston where she underwent an operation on Tuesday. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Eli Miller spent a few days last week with relatives in Kingston.

Mrs. W. D. Coons is in Kingston for several days, owing to the illness of her sister, Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Arthur Schlausker of Schenectady has been caring for her mother, Mrs. C. Van Valkenburg, and sister, Mrs. Netta Griffin, who have been ill.

SHANDAKEN TAXPAYERS MEETING HELD APRIL 13

Hubert Sears, president of the Marlborough Taxpayers Association, and George Mutari, president of the Ulster County Taxpayers Council were the speakers at the meeting of the Taxpayers' Association of the town of Shandaken held at Mt. Tremper on April 13. At the meeting B. Schwarzwaelder and Frank Carle were appointed a committee to draft a charter for the new organization. The next meeting will be held in the Mt. Tremper hall on Thursday evening, April 26, at 8 p. m.

Meeting of Ball Chairmen

Walter L. Foster, general chairman of the K. of C. Charity Ball, requests all chairmen of the several committees having the coming ball in charge to be present at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus building. Final plans for the ball will be completed at this time.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 18 (AP)—The upward pace of stocks was accelerated today under the leadership of preferred and specialty issues and numerous gains of 1 to 2 or more points were recorded.

Equities were again inclined to ignore grains, although the latter displayed rallying tendencies. Better business and industrial news, together with brighter Washington prospects were generally credited with the improvement in sentiment.

Wheat dipped and recovered a bit nervously. Cotton, rubber and silver futures took a step or so forward. A number of bonds again established "new highs". The dollar exhibited strength in foreign exchange markets on the belief that the administration was pointing to the "right."

Shares of National Lead spurted 8 points and Crucible Steel preferred jumped 7. Preferred stocks, up 1 to around 2, included Postal Telegraph, Republic Steel, Armour of Illinois, Gillette, Budd Manufacturing, Radio, U. S. Rubber, Millins Manufacturing, Commonwealth & Southern and International Paper and power. U. S. Smelting, American Telephone, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Liggett & Myers B advanced about 2 each. Such stocks as U. S. Steel, Western Union, American Can, Case, DuPont, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, Auburn, Schenley and Consolidated Gas were up around a point. Mohawk Carpet and California Packing were in demand at a point or more advance.

Warren Luck

By SIDNEY WINTHROP

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

IT WAS a cardinal article of faith up and down Duck river that things would happen to a Warren as sure as he was born. It had been so from the beginning—witness the voyage of Gillard, the earliest comer across the mountains from Carolina. He had loaded a flatboat for New Orleans with the yield of his own fat, fresh land, sold out the second day after his journey ended for what seemed a fabulous price, then, going from the market, had met and fallen deep in love with Carolotta Woodruff—whom he married three days later.

When Gilliard died fifteen years later, leaving Carlotta five thousand rich acres, six sons and ready money in both pockets, she carried on just as if he were still there to comfort and counsel her.

To her grief she lived to see the name passing out—Warren daughters had far, far, outnumbered Warren sons in the third generation. But she died happy in the knowledge that the fourth Gilliard was the very moral and pattern of the first. His baby girl Carlotta received her last blessing.

Then one fine day in walked young Herbert Townsend, to say to her father and mother that he had married Carlotta at the county seat. His father, President Townsend of the T. & C. railroad, had picked out a girl of quite another sort—not specially unattractive, but rich, and stupid beyond expression. Anyway, he had known the minute he met Carlotta that she was the only wife for him. No! He hadn't as yet a steady job, nor very much money—none, in fact, if the governor turned rusty. But Carlotta shouldn't lack things so long as he could lift his hands even with a pick and shovel in them.

So they went to live with Carlotta's family. Herbert found himself disowned save on the impossible conditions of forsaking his wife. Lacking a chance to use his mind, he did not blench before using his trained muscles. Going doggedly to work as a common miner, in a month he was promoted to gang foreman and better pay.

When at last they laid a son in his arms, his first tears fell. Carlotta, watching him, understood. He was vowing to make up to their son all his willfulness had cost.

She paid for it in utter desolation a year later, when lightning fired the house, killing her father instantly, stunning her mother, but leaving unscathed Carlotta, Herbert and their child. They got out safely, but when Herbert rushed back into the burning flames to save her mother, Carlotta followed him, until the baby's cries recalled her, severely burned. Herbert was staggering toward her, seared and blinded, but steadfast even to death. He had her mother in his arms.

A month later Carlotta, deeply scarred, a figure of woe, faced President Townsend. He said in a hard voice, his eyes greedily upon her son. "You stole my boy—now you will pay for it with your own. Give him up and he shall have all I meant for his father. You have an invalid mother to support—no strength to work, no beauty left to ensnare another husband. I will give you competence for life—and will give your son riches."

It was a frozen woman who laid her child in his arms, kissed it once, and moved away.

Years later—fifteen, to be exact—the Mountain house was interested and mystified in July at the coming of the Gray Lady. "Mrs. Florence Gray," her card read. She was neither young nor old, despite snow-white hair, was hallmarked unmistakably as rich and aristocratic.

People waited to see whether she might be a friend of the Townsends. But when they came, a fornight later, they seemed as strange to her as everybody else.

But the Townsends were in trouble. Townsend Williams, nephew of old Mr. Townsend, and co-heir with his grandson—seventeen-year-old Herbert, apple of his grandsire's eyes—was a bad egg. He hated Herbert and was always scheming to get him into scrapes. He knew his uncle's pride in blood and honor, and based his schemes upon it. Using an inborn knack with a pen, plus opportunities due to relationship, he had involved the family fortune so deep there was no turning back. A million dollars would be needed now to clear the family name of scandal.

Summoned imperatively to his uncle's presence, when old Mr. Townsend found out how things stood, the nephew found there his uncle's lawyer—and the Gray Lady.

"This scandal can be hushed—for a million dollars—if you are willing to beggar yourself," said the lawyer.

"I cannot do it," said Mr. Townsend. "Think of Herbert."

"I will give a million for him—twice over," said the Gray Lady.

Mr. Townsend stared. The lawyer explained. She could do it—she was the widow of Calvert Gray, the oil man, sole heir to his fortune. She had married him from pity when he seemed down and out. Gushers kept coming in, one after another—and she was left with a fortune.

"Quite the finest sort of romance," said the lawyer.

"With a happy ending for me," said the Gray Lady, once Carlotta Warren, "for with that million dollars, that clears the Townsend name, I buy back my beloved Herbert." And she rushed away to claim her ransomed son.

Lunch or Luncheon

Lunch and luncheon are interchangeable words. Either of the two sentences—"Mr. Jones is out at luncheon" and "Mr. Jones is out at lunch"—is correct. Usage depends entirely upon personal preference.—Literary Digest.

Rondout creek bed which had been washed down by a flood and throwing it up back of a dock along the Ter Bush land. He said he did not know whether Ter Bush paid for the work or not.

He said he had talked to Supervisor Dusinbere of the case last Saturday. He had talked long before the case ever came up with Mr. Dusinbere.

Bridges Authorized

There was offered in evidence the report of the board of supervisors for 1928 and 1929, or so much of it as deals with the Dusinbere resolution authorizing the State Camp and Dean bridges in Denning. The State Camp bridge resolution was adopted in December, 1928, and the Dean bridge resolution in 1928 about September after a flood.

Flemming objected to testimony as to the Dean bridge as it was not in the issues framed. Mr. Ewig said he offered it only to fix time of certain conversations and to fix the time of work on the Ter Bush property. Objection overruled by 17 to 15 vote.

Sheeley said he recognized the photograph of the Van Etten bridge as the one he had built.

It was conceded that George E. Halliday had been supervisor of Shawangunk from 1928 until his death in September, 1929.

Cross-examined again by Mr. Flemming the witness said the Ter Bush property was farm land bordering on the Rondout and was now owned by Supervisor George of Denning. Ter Bush owned it when the work was done on the docking. At that time there was a cribbing at that point and Mr. Ter Bush said the work had been done at town cost. He had worked on the crib but the town had paid.

Sheeley said he had been sent to Denning with a county shovel to give aid to the town after a flood. He was under the direction of the town board and Mr. Loughran, but he took most of his orders from the town board of Denning. The purpose of the shovel going there was to straighten out damage done by a flood. John Coddington was town superintendent then. He did quite a lot of work in the town with the shovel while it was there at the town board's direction he said.

At the Ter Bush place he took material washed down by the flood from the old bed of the creek and threw it back of the crib and opened the old channel again. By filling back of the crib he improved the creek channel and that was the best place to deposit the stuff.

The only member of the town board at that time he could recall beside the town superintendent was William Erts. He said Mr. Loughran came up frequently, but most of the work was left to the town board as the shovel had been sent in to aid town conditions.

On examination by Mr. Ewig he said the crib had been damaged by the high water at the Ter Bush place but he did not repair the crib, he simply filled in the crib with stone and gravel from the channel of the creek. The docking prevented the water from flowing over the Ter Bush flats.

Cross examined by Mr. Flemming he said he had nothing to do with the crib. He put no soil in the crib, only stone and gravel from the creek.

Asked about the Sundown bridge by Mr. Ewig the witness said that bridge was below the Ter Bush place on the Rondout, it was an iron bridge. It was located a matter of yards below the Ter Bush place and above the Dean bridge. The Sundown bridge he said was about opposite the Ter Bush house. Further up the stream, a mile or so was another bridge, an "I" beam and plank bridge.

Protected Bridges

By confining the water of the Rondout to the old channel he said it protected the bridges. That was why the channel was opened and the material thrown back of the docking.

Asked by Mr. Ewig whether it would not lessen the amount of water flowing under the bridge if it were allowed to flow over the Ter Bush flats, the witness said it would. If the water was permitted to spread over the Ter Bush flats there would be less water under the bridge and consequently less chance for damage to the bridge.

On being questioned by Mr. Flemming he said that in times of high water the water did flow around the bridges and "the whole country was flooded." This high water created a dangerous condition for bridges. If the water ran over the TerBush lands and around the bridge and back into the creek below the bridge he could not say whether it would lessen the danger to the bridges or not. He said he did not know the condition of the Sundown bridge immediately after the flood.

Engineer Hallinan was recalled and gave various measurements and elevations. He testified that the Van Etten house and buildings and much of the land by the house was lower tha nthe creek bank. The construction of the revetment near the Van Aken place would prevent the flow of water over the Van Etten place except for an opening in the wall where some water evidently had been going through and where the revetment was washed out. The Van Etten house he indicated was about two feet lower than the flow line indicated by refuse on the land. The general condition at the house and buildings was that they were lower than the banks of the Rondout at the revetment. The survey had been made on April 12, 1934, for his father at the direction of Mr. Ewig.

Dwight McEntee was called to identify certain papers from the county treasurer's office. Vouchers were shown him. He said he had given Mr. Ewig certain vouchers but he would not tell if the ones shown were the ones he had given him or not. He was asked to look up and determine whether certain vouchers of H. L. DeVoe had been paid.

Coughlin Testifies

Joseph Coughlin, of Ellenville, a sand and gravel man, was called. He said he had a stone quarry at Briggs Street and one on the Woodbourne-Grahamsville road in Sullivan county. His sand pit is near Ellenville. He said he had sold stone and sand for several state jobs and had also drawn stone for H. L. DeVoe at $1.25 a yard to certain jobs. Asked if he had an order for stone from Mr. Manstin, a contractor, he said he had a written order. It was produced. Next morning he said his office was called and Mr. Manstin said he was sorry—at that point Mr. Flemming objected to a conversation not in the presence of Loughran. Overruled by 17 to 15 vote. He said he had been notified by the county superintendent of highways office that the stone was coming from out of Ulster county and the contractor said that consequently he would have to cancel the order. He said the sand order was also canceled as he did not wish to furnish sand without the stone order. His place he said was in Sullivan county six or seven miles from the Ulster county line but that he employed 15 or 20 men, all from Ulster county except his shovel operator.

Asked if he had seen Mr. Loughran about a week ago on the Greenfield road, he said he had. Mr. Flemming objected as it was after the proceedings had been commenced and was incompetent. Mr. Ewig said he wanted to show Mr. Loughran's attitude toward the witness but he finally withdrew the question.

Cross-examined by Flemming, Coughlin said he had not talked with Manstin himself it was with his office. Mr. Flemming objected to the conversation and asked that the conversation in regard to the cancellation of the stone and sand order be stricken out as hearsay. Mr. Ewig consented.

He told of stone he had furnished and sand he had furnished for state highway jobs. On the Minnewaska Trail road DeVoe had run short and he had supplied some crushed stone for macadam and concrete work on culverts and walls. He had supplied McLean with sand for concrete at Napanoch prison. Stone he supplied Harrison Engineering Company at Napanoch he said he had bought in Middletown. The stone he supplied for Minnewaska Trail he said was supplied from his quarry in Ulster county and not the Sullivan county quarry. For the shop building at Napanoch he said the stone supplied had been from the Briggs Street quarry. The stone for Kerhonkson bridge job he bought from DeVoe and perhaps some was used from the Briggs Street quarry. On the Spring Glen road he drew from DeVoe.

Mr. Flemming asked if it was not true that stone for state highway jobs had to be approved by the State Department. He said it did. Asked if the Binghamton office of the State Department had not tested stone from the Sullivan county quarry, and failed to pass it, the witness said he never heard that. He did not believe the samples taken had been tested. He never received a report.

"Our stone is a little soft, that is what we have to watch," he said.

He said he did not know of the Binghamton office of the State Highway Department rejecting stone from his quarry in Sullivan county. So far as he knew it had not been submitted for test to Albany.

At that point an adjournment was taken until 1:30 o'clock.

Society Notes

Every-Rodden.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Every of Port Ewen wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Emma Cleo, to John Marshall Rodden, son of Mrs. Joseph Rodden of Ravine street, on April 14 at Port Ewen. They were attended by Miss Kathryn Jordon and August Albrecht. Mr. and Mrs. Rodden will make their home in a newly furnished apartment at Port Ewen, after May 1.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Tweedie are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son, born at the Benedictine Hospital Tuesday morning. The young man will answer to the name of John Hilston.

Abyssinians Dance in Churches

In Abyssinia are strangely preserved many forgotten rites of the ancient Hebrews and the first Christians. After the Queen of Sheba's visit to King Solomon, it is said 12,000 Hebrews of the best families in Jerusalem settled in the land. The descendants of these people today form the aristocracy of Abyssinia and are Christian. On the other hand, another contingent of Hebrews came to Abyssinia after the destruction of the Temple at Jerusalem, and have remained faithful to the original Jewish religion. It is an interesting fact that the Abyssinians still dance in their churches, as the Israelites did before the Ark.

Genesis of a Stogie

When the Argonauts drove their large, white canvas-covered wagons across the desert, their drivers needed something to keep their minds off the dust and death around them. They carried long cigars, bought in Pittsburgh at the start of their trip, around the top of their boots. The wagons they drove were called Conestoga wagons, because they were made in Conestoga, N. Y. When the driver wished to be especially polite to a rider alongside him, he would reach down into his boot for a cigar. The smoke became known as a "Conestoga cigar"—and was finally shortened to "stoga"—hence, stogie.

Remarkable Descendants

Vaudeville Show At Wallkill Prison

Wallkill, April 18.—Spurred on by the success of a gala minstrel show held last fall at the Medium Security Prison the inmates have prepared a dramatic and vaudeville show which will be presented at the prison auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings, April 26 and 27.

"The Valiant," a Broadway and motion picture success, will be the feature of the bill which will include seven sterling vaudeville acts.

Acted and directed by inmates, whose versatility is amazing, the show will include in addition to the dramatic offering a colored cartoonist, two witty song, dance and chatter acts, a typical New England country store scene climaxed by a "peppy" square dance, and an offering in tune with the "hard times" just passeed, a "hobo convention" presentation, and a colorful revival offering reminiscent of Georgia days.

The curtain will rise at 8:15 p. m. and the public is cordially invited.

Tickets can be procured from Harry Maisenhelder.

Algiers Safe City

Although Algiers, Algeria, was the capital of piracy for 300 years, and life was held lightly there for several centuries, Algiers is now one of the happiest and safest cities in northern Africa.

Local Death Record

Joseph A. Albertini died in this city on Tuesday. He was a son of Modesto and Amelia Caru Albertini. Funeral services from the family home, 102 Broadway, Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock and thence to St. Mary's Church where a solemn requiem Mass will be celebrated for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The remains of Mrs. Sarah A. Middaugh, whose funeral was held February 26, were removed from the vault in Montrepose cemetery this morning and interred in the Marbletown cemetery where the Rev. C. C. Chilton, pastor of the Marbletown Reformed Church, had charge of the committal services. Mrs. Middaugh was the oldest member of that church at the time of her death.

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha M. Spinnenweber was held from the late home in Port Ewen on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Philip Goertz officiating. There were many beautiful floral offerings and the services were largely attended. Interment was in the Port Ewen cemetery. The bearers were Edward Freer, Charles Howe, Charles Schweigel, George Auringer, Harry Mabie and Samuel Tinnie.

Mrs. Agatha Brown, who suffered a stroke on Sunday, died at her home on Partition street, Saugerties, Monday night. Mrs. Brown was one of the older residents of Saugerties aand a woman highly respected by neighbors and friends. One daughter, Mrs. Alexander Rodie of Ridgefield Park, N. J.; one step-daughter, Mrs. Cshristina Reynolds; and three sons, Mathias Brown, Henry Brown and Augustus Brown, survive.

Lay New Pavement On Mary's Avenue

Mary's avenue is to be rebuilt from West Chester street to Pine Grove avenue as a Works Division project, and actual work of rebuilding the street is now underway. There is considerable travel over this street owing to the fact that the Benedictine Hospital is located on the street, and many who live on the high points of West Chester and West Chestnut streets and vicinity use that street as it affords an easy grade for traffic.

Public Audition

A public audition will be held on Monday evening, April 23, beginning at 7 p. m. in the Leventhal Building on Wall street for violin, viola and cello players who wish to become members of the Kingston Philharmonic Orchestra. Only people who will be present at all rehearsals and are not under fourteen years of age will be accepted as members. Pierre Henrotte, concert master of the Metropolitan Opera, will be in charge of the auditions.

Dance at Dugout

Thursday evening a dance will be held at the "Dugout" on East Chestnut street with music by Charles Amato's Hill Billies.

Supervisors Hear Witnesses As Trial of Loughran Begins

Board of Supervisors Sitting as Judge and Jury in Matter of Ousting County Superintendent James F. Loughran—All Votes Reveal Strict Party Lines on All Questions.

The taking of testimony from witnesses was taken up Tuesday afternoon before the board of supervisors, sitting to hear charges brought by the Democratic side of the house against County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran. Several witnesses were sworn by Mr. Ewig, county attorney, who appears for the board, the county and the taxpayers. Mr. Loughran is represented by H. H. Flemming. Of counsel to the county attorney is William A. Kaercher. Supreme Court Stenographer Ellison is taking the minutes.

For the information of spectators who do not know the prominent men involved in the case it might be well to say that the elderly gentleman who presides so graciously at the board is Alfred Markle, chairman of the board of supervisors. To his right standing at the pulpit desk is Clerk Daniel Shaw of New Paltz, whose chief duties Tuesday were to call the numerous roll calls on objections. At the small table is Stenographer Ellison and to his left is H. H. Flemming. County Attorney Ewig sits at the table near Mr. Flemming. Tuesday Mr. Loughran was also seated at the table with his counsel. The gentlemen who listen rather informally to the testimony and who frequently vote 17 to 15 and are seated at the tables in the room are the supervisors. The board of supervisors are the court and jury in the case. The board must listen to the evidence brought out, rule on objections of counsel in the same manner that a presiding judge rules on motions in a regular court and at the conclusion will vote on the question of whether the claims of the Democrats have been substantiated and whether Mr. Loughran is guilty of the charges and should be removed. It is a well known fact that the board stands 17 to 16 Democratic and the charges have been brought by the Democratic side of the house which seeks to oust Mr. Loughran.

Frequent objections are being made by counsel and much time is taken up in roll calls. In an effort to shorten the procedure Mr. Flemming took a blanket objection to all testimony of matters prior to 1932 and that objection stands for all such matters. However, there are still frequent roll-calls, all time consuming. It appears as though a week will be consumed in the hearing. Then a vote will be taken and if the vote is to oust Mr. Loughran from his position to which he was appointed for a term of four years from last June, the matter will undoubtedly go to the appellate division for a legal determination.

Tuesday morning's session was taken up in making of motions and roll calls preliminary to the actual taking of testimony.

There was the motion to prevent Mr. Heitzman from sitting on the grounds he was employed in Mr. Flemming's office. He explained that he was not in Mr. Flemming's employ and was employed by the Cornell Steamboat Company for which Mr. Flemming was counsel and that he had no part in preparing the papers in the present case. The board voted to allow him to sit as a member of the board.

There was a long discussion as to whether the county attorney could offer motions. Supervisor Stanbrough stated that he never heard of the county attorney presenting motions. "This is still a board of supervisors even though we act foolish sometimes," said Mr. Stanbrough. He said he thought only members of the board could present motions.

It was finally determined and agreed that under the circumstances the board was a court and counsel had a right to object and make motions to the procedure. It was agreed that on such objections the members of the board should vote to sustain or over-rule and this procedure was adopted and continued.

Various motions were made in regard to the bill of particulars presented on demand of counsel for Mr. Loughran and other technical objections were made by counsel on both sides. Objections were promptly determined along political lines with the Democrats predominating.

Mr. Flemming moved that all charges prior to Mr. Loughran's present term of office commencing last June be dismissed. Over-ruled. A similar motion was made to dismiss on the grounds that Mr. Loughran was under civil service and that was over-ruled.

There was a discussion as to whether counsel for Mr. Loughran should be given a copy of the minutes in the action at the county expense and that was defeated.

It was then stated that Mr. McDowell who brought to the charges was not represented by counsel and that the county attorney was appearing for those fostering the removal of Loughran. This was objected to on the grounds that if the board desired counsel on any matter they would have no one to turn to as the county attorney was appearing for those who brought the charges. Over-ruled by a vote.

A motion of Dr. Van Wagenen for the exclusion of Supervisor McDowell from sitting with the board on the grounds he had brought the charges was defeated.

At the opening of the afternoon session Garrett Van Wagenen was stated to be ill. A doctor's certificate was received from Dr. Kemble. It was ruled that he was not a licensed physician and the chair ruled that he would appoint an examining physician to determine whether the witness was ill.

Mr. Ewig then charged that several witnesses called had been threatened with loss of jobs if they appeared. Mr. Flemming objected to the statement.

Then the actual taking of testimony was begun with Blaine Wright being called as Mr. Ewig's first witness.

Blaine Wright of Kerhonkson was the first witness called. He said he had been born at Bull Run in the town of Denning and had lived there for some 18 years. Bull Run he said was no longer on the map. Asked if he knew the Lawrence Van Etten place he said he did, a portion of the Addison Wright place was now owned by Van Etten. Addison Wright he said was his father.

Mr. Wright said he had left the farm and about 1911 his father sold the farm. The Van Etten farm owned then by Coddington, had adjoined his father's property. The witness said he was 18 years old when he left the farm.

Mr. Ewig then offered several deeds and records of deeds to the former Wright and Coddington property which now consists of the Van Etten property. Mr. Wright identified several of the parcels and told of the former ownership prior to Van Etten becoming the owner. The deeds were received in evidence.

Arthur Hallinan was called to identify a map which he had prepared showing a portion of the Van Etten property at Sundown in the vicinity of the Van Etten bridge over the Rondout creek and also the vicinity of the Stone Cabin creek which flows into the Rondout above the Van Etten property.

Mr. Hallinan identified the map and pointed out on the map the Van Etten bridge over the Rondout. He said that when he went to make the survey recently he saw a plate on the bridge which stated that it was County Bridge No. 12, built in 1929 by the County of Ulster. On the Van Etten property he said he had observed two buildings, the Van Etten house and a barn. They were the only structures on the premises that he observed. At the point in question the creek flowed east from the bridge for 500 feet and then changes its course northeast for 1,000 feet and then changes to the east again. Stone Cabin Creek empties into the Rondout about 1,500 feet from the Van Etten bridge.

It is the Van Etten bridge which it is charged Mr. Loughran built for private use of the occupants of the farm.

A very technical description of the creek, its distance from the bridge and the location of various embankments thrown up to confine the Rondout to its channel was given together with distances, etc. By the description it appeared that two of these embankments had been thrown up by shovels to confine the creek to its course. He said there was one such embankment 100 feet long on the west of Stone Cabin Creek extending some 120 feet from the mouth of the creek and another 450 feet long in the Rondout to the west of where Stony Cabin Creek empties into the Rondout. Mr. Hallinan said these structures were made by throwing up the gravel, stone and earth from the bed of the creek to confine the stream within its bounds.

As to the Van Etten bridge he said as you leave the Peekamoose on Gulf road to go toward the Van Etten farm on the north of the creek there was the bridge across the Rondout. On that road near the bridge was a sign when he visited the place, stating that the bridge was safe for an eight ton load. Further on across the bridge toward the Van Etten place was a "no trespassing" sign. The bridge was described as a concrete span 54 feet between abutments with a total length of 57.6 feet. On leaving the Gulf or Peekamoose road and crossing the bridge, he said, you came to the Van Etten place. There was no other road from the bridge than the road to the Van Etten property. Across this road 44 feet from the bridge was a gate at the approach to the Van Etten farm.

The witness said that he had observed another delapidated building to the northeast of the Van Etten residence on the property.

At the revetment in the Rondout creek the flow of the stream is westerly, the water now flows on the southeast of the revetment but there is also water flowing on the other side of the embankment where water had erroded the bank and broken through.

At the upper revetment at Stony Cabin Creek the water has also broken through, most of the water he said flowed in the main channel, but some flowed through a break in the revetment at the shore line.

Before the map was accepted in evidence Mr. Flemming inquired of the witness as to how it had been made and as to its completeness. The witness said he had made a survey and had not used the deeds to make the map. He said the flow of the Rondout was from east to west and the Van Etten property was on the north of the creek. At the bridge the creek is 50 feet wide but 1,000 feet up above the bridge at the revetment near Stony Cabin Brook the creek is much wider.

Asked by Mr. Flemming whether he had looked for a road north of the Van Etten property after crossing the bridge he said he had not looked. The witness said the map did not show all of the lands of Van Etten and certain fences and walls did not indicate bounds of the Van Etten lands, they were objects he had found on the ground and were not intended to show bounds, they had been put on the map because they existed.

Mr. Flemming objected to the offer of the map by Mr. Ewig as it evidently had been offered to show the lands of Lawrence Van Etten and showed only a portion. The bounds were not shown.

Mr. Ewig then asked if the map had not been drawn to show the flow of the Rondout creek and a portion of the lands near the bridge and the witness said that was true. Altitudes are also given on the map. The map the witness said showed that the Rondout creek or its center is part of the boundary of the Van Etten land.

Mr. Flemming renewed his objection and a vote was taken as a ruling on the objection and the objection was over-ruled by 17 to 16 vote.

These frequent roll calls on objections took up much time.

The map was received.

The witness said the no trespassing signs were on the north side of the Rondout near the wire fence near the gate to the Van Etten property. There was also a sign he observed near the Stony Creek on the north side of the Rondout. There were no trespassing signs on the south side of the creek that Hallinan saw.

Mr. Wright was recalled by Mr. Ewig for the prosecution. He said he had visited the Van Etten place when his father owned part of it and two, three and four times a year since 1914. Between October 20 and 25, 1933, he had visited the scene. On that date he saw signs of work by a shovel in the Rondout creek. This was 100 feet from the bridge. In November of 1933 he went up again and saw further evidence of a shovel having been at work on the stream. He did not go to Stony Cabin creek then so did not see what had been done there. The work had been done nearly to the mouth of Stony Cabin creek as he saw it. In November he heard a shovel working up the creek but did not see it.

He then went on to tell how he and his folks reached their property on Stony Cabin creek in the 90's when they lived there.

Mr. Wright said that in his boyhood days they had forded the stream further up than the map showed. They crossed both the Rondout and Cabin Creek to get to the place, the Esopus being crossed about a half mile above where the present bridge is at the Van Etten property. From there a road was maintained over a neighbor's property. Later in about 1896 or 1897 a bridge was built over the Rondout near where the Van Etten bridge now is. At the time they forded the creek there was a bridge at the Coddington, now Van Etten, property but they did not use it. It was subsequently washed out by high water and then his father and two brothers aided Mr. Coddington in constructing a log and plank bridge across the Rondout. From that time on they used the bridge and made a road along the Rondout Creek at a point near where there is now a stone wall and wire fence. After the construction of the bridge by John Coddington and the Wrights the old route was abandoned and he said by permission of Coddington they used the bridge and the road along the creek.

At that time a road was built along the creek to their property. He said the approximate location of the road was indicated on the Hallinan map by the stone wall and fences. Last fall when he was there he said he did not see the road along the creek which they had used. On the north side of the Rondout there was no other road other than the one to the Van Etten place which crossed the bridge. He had observed no trespassing signs on the Van Etten property. Mr. Wright said he now worked in Yonkers and was here under subpoena.

Cross examined by Mr. Flemming Wright said that in fording the creek they had crossed about 500 feet east of where Cabin Creek flows into the Rondout, that would be 2,000 feet about from the Van Etten bridge. The ford had been used some 35 years ago but later used the bridge and the road. The road along the creek was used only by members of the Wright family, there were no other houses on the road. So far as he could recall his father had used the bridge at Coddington's from about 1897 to 1910. The only person using the road to the north from the bridge he said was Coddington.

On his visit to Denning in October, 1933, he said there was evidence of a recent flood. The shovel work was being done in the Rondout 100 feet above the bridge. The water had washed away where the former road to their premises had been along the creek and also the north shore of the Rondout creek showed evidence of damage by a stone wall 100 feet east of the bridge. In November of 1933 he saw evidence of work going on further up the creek. This work was being done in the center of the creek, a channel was being cleaned out and the dirt thrown up on either bank. There was evidence that the creek had overflowed its banks from the bridge up to the revetment.

On cross examination he said there had been a bridge near the site of the present one prior to 1895 or 1896, when it was washed out. The Wright family had never used that prior bridge but after the new bridge was constructed with the aid of his father and brothers they used it with Coddington's consent. He said he did not know for whom the work was done or whether the work was ordered done by the town. The Peekamoose road and Gulf road were traveled ways when he lived in Denning.

On redirect by Mr. Ewig he said there was evidence last fall of damage by flood over the Van Etten lands. By the stone wall along the old road it had washed, part of the wall was gone and 10 or 12 feet of land where the former road had been was gone. He said he had not observed damage on the north side of the creek by the Van Etten buildings other than drift wood. In his time he said there had been a wood road from the Coddingon place, past the buildings and to the north but it did not lead to any buildings. It was a wood road.

Again examined by Mr. Flemming the witness said that the work he saw being done on the creek was to restore it to its natural channel.

At that point Mr. Ewig offered the resolution of former Supervisor Etrr of Denning authorizing the construction of the Van Etten bridge as adopted by the board of supervisors on April 29, 1929 and under which resolution the bridge was built.

Glenford Sheeley of Montela was next called by Mr. Ewig. He said he was unemployed now but had been employed by the county on highway work in 1933. It was Sheeley who operated one of the shovels which made the revetments. In September of 1933, he said, he had worked there. He ran the town of Wawarsing shovel and had been paid his wages by the town but had done county work with the shovel under the direction of County Superintendent of Highways. He said he bought gas for the shovel at Loris Dean's. Mr. Loughran he said had told him to buy it there. He said he started out by the bridge and worked up-stream for 150 feet and finished work on October 5. He said he had worked at the revetment in the Rondout creek and had been told to throw the dirt to the left and bring the stream back to its old bed. That instruction he said had been issued by Mr. Loughran. He also said that Mr. Loughran had told him to go up to the spot and Mr. Van Etten would show him at what place he wanted the dirt thrown. At times he said Mr. Van Etten did tell him where to throw the dirt and some of the dirt was thrown as directed by Van Etten. The witness said Van Etten told him to go up to the Stony Cabin Creek revetment.

Sheeley said the purpose of the work was to prevent the stream from flowing to the north side of the Rondout and to bring the stream back to its old bed on the south side where it had been before the flood. When he had finished his work the water had been returned to the south side but there was a low place in the revetment on the north side and a couple of weeks ago there had been some water flowing through that spot which came from Stony Cabin Creek.

While at work there Mr. Sheeley said he had observed an old road on the north side of the creek. There was a road to the Van Etten farm and a gate near the bridge.

Photographs of the bridge, the gateway and the revetments were produced and offered in evidence. There was evidence of high water on the Van Etten premises he said. The water had broken through and flowed toward the buildings and then about 10 feet from the bridge it had evidently turned abruptly. The course of the water on the premises was indicated by driftwood. By the work which he had done he said he had stopped the water from flowing over the Van Etten property and threw it south under the bridge.

Cross examined by Mr. Flemming the witness said when he arrived on the scene he found the north abutment of the Van Etten bridge washed badly. He put his shovel in near the bridge and cleared the channel as well as he could under the bridge and threw the water from the north abutment over toward the south against the rocks. He also filled in the washout at the north abutment. About five feet had been washed out at the north abutment. As he worked his shovel up the creek he threw the dirt to the north on a level part of the creek bed and brought the water back to its original channel in the stream. He said there had been a flood a short time before he went on the job and he cleared the channel for 150 feet from the bridge and then went on up the creek to the revetments and worked there. The revetments he said had not been there until he put them there. The work had been done last fall.

Sheeley said he talked to Van Etten about where to throw the stuff removed from the creek. He talked of throwing it to the north. At the revetments he shoveled out the rocks and soil brought down by the flood and restored the creek to its original channel.

Sadie Dean of Sundown was next called by Mr. Ewig. She said they conducted a gas station and store. She knew Glen Sheeley and he had bought gas and oil at her place for his shovel while on the job. Vouchers were shown indicating that the county board of supervisors had paid $59.21 for gas and oil for the Sheeley shovel. Mrs. Dean said she believed Ben Baldwin had ordered the gas and oil.

Cross examined by Mr. Flemming she said Sheeley had bought gas and oil for his shovel while on the job and she had presented bills to the county and they had been paid.

Glen Sheeley recalled. He said that the period covered by the Dean bills was the period when he was working in Denning with the shovel. He said Mr. Loughran or Baldwin told him to buy his gas and oil at Dean's. He did not know which one had told him. He recalled Baldwin telling him where to go to work on the job.

Next came Archie Dulaff of the town of Denning. He said he did not know Lawrence Van Etten personally but he knew the farm. Mr. Dulaff said he had gone with Joseph Konen to fish at the Van Etten property in June 1931. They crossed the bridge in the car and parked and were going fishing. When they were one-half or three-quarters way from the bridge to the gate a man who said he was Van Etten told them they were trespassing on private property. He inquired who they were and they told him. He said he was Van Etten. They went back. It had been their intention to fish Cabin creek.

At this point Mr. Flemming objected to all testimony of happenings prior to 1932. A vote was taken and his objection was defeated 17 to 15.

Joseph Konen of Claryville was next called. He proved to be a ready wit. He was asked by Mr. Ewig if he had heard the testimony of his buddy Dulaff about the fishing trip.

"No, I tried to hear but could not," replied the witness.

Asked if he knew the place being talked about he said he did.

He said they started to go fishing but a man on the bridge stopped them. They went in the car across the bridge and the man on the bridge asked Dulaff to move the car and they did. The man said it was private.

"This man on the bridge asked Dulaff to move the car as it was private grounds?" inquired Mr. Ewig.

"Yes, sir, he did. I think it was private grounds. Think he was right according to the bounds of the old road. I think Dulaff was way off," replied Konen.

Cross examined by Mr. Flemming the witness said that there had been no conversation.

"He said move and we did" replied Konen. The witness said he did not hear the man say who he was or hear Dulaff tell his name.

"Not to my knowledge did I hear them say their names. I heard no conversation," replied Konen.

"So far as I know the man might have been Abraham Lincoln," he volunteered and the audience laughed.

"Well did he look like Abraham Lincoln?" asked Mr. Flemming.

"Well sir, don't know, never saw Abraham Lincoln" and the audience again had a hearty laugh.

Mr. Konen continuing said that "we had calculated to go up Stone Cabin Creek fishing but the man ordered them away.

"Well, was your car on private ground?" asked Flemming.

"No sir, had no car," replied the witness and again there was a laugh.

"Well was Dulaff's car on private ground?" asked Mr. Flemming.

"In my judgment it was," said Konen. He said they drove back across the bridge and fished around but could not get across the creek without getting wet so they went home.

Mr. Ewig then showed the witness photographs of the bridge and the witness said

"Well sir, I am a poor hand to look at pictures and recognize them."

Mr. Ewig asked him if he recognized the bridge in the picture and the witness said, "I do not." That ended his testimony.

Edwin Sheeley came next. He lives in Wallkill and works in a garage now. He formerly was a foreman in the employ of the county and worked on bridges from 1925. He said he was a labor foreman on bridge jobs.

He knew the Van Etten bridge and was foreman on the job in 1929 when it was built.

During the construction of the bridge he said he had a conversation with Mr. Loughran about the road on the other side of the bridge. He said Mr. Loughran said the road continued up along the creek, it was an old road. Sheeley said he told Loughran that it used to be a road.

They went up where there had been a road along the creek, part of it was gone.

Then the witness said Mr. Loughran said:

"Had I known the condition here I don't know if I would have built the bridge." The witness said Mr. Loughran said he had asked the town superintendent if the road was a part of the old town highway system and had been informed that it was.

Sheeley said he could see it had been a road but was not being used.

In 1929 at the State Camp Bridge in Denning he was also foreman on a construction job there. In October of 1929 Mr. Loughran and Supervisor Luther Dusinbere came to the job. It was before election. He said the three did not talk together but he had talked to both men separately.

Sheeley said, "Mr. Loughran told me I could hire all the men I wanted on the job. In fact hire all the men in the town but get men on whom you can depend." This conversation was after he had also had a talk to Dusinbere.

Ewig asked for the conversation with Dusinbere and Mr. Flemming objected. There was a vote and the objection was over-ruled by the usual 17 to 15 vote. Dr. Van Wagenen had left.

Supervisor Elsworth asked if he might ask a question and was permitted to do so. He asked if Mr. Loughran was present at the Dusinbere conversation and the witness said no.

Sheeley said that Dusinbere said that instead of giving the committee money to spend for the fall election they were going to let me spend the money on bridge jobs. "Dusinbere said they would like to have a Republican supervisor from Denning," concluded Sheeley.

Three days after election in 1929 he said he again saw Mr. Loughran at State Camp Bridge. The witness said "Mr. Loughran asked if I could shut down the job by the fifteenth of the month", he said. Mr. Loughran also said that he was closing all bridge jobs and that apparently the people of the town of Denning did not appreciate what he was doing for them.

"He said he would not spend any more money in Denning than he had to", said Sheeley.

In the spring of 1929 Sheeley said he had been sent to Shawangunk to operate a shovel on the Hogeberg hill. At that time Mr. Loughran said that Supervisor Halliday was in charge of the work and would tell what men to hire for the job. Supervisor Halliday has since died. The witness said he talked to Halliday about men. When he wanted men he told Halliday and the men were sent to him. Mr. Halliday was generally present when the men reported for work. The witness said that Mr. Loughran had said of Shawangunk that he would not spend any more money than he had to after election. He said that the people of the town evidently did not appreciate what he was doing for them.

Asked by Mr. Ewig whether anything was said about election of a Republican supervisor in Shawangunk by Loughran the witness said:

"I believe Mr. Loughran—" he was stopped by an objection by Flemming that he must not testify to what he believed but what he knew. He then said he could not recall whether Mr. Loughran had said he would like to have a Republican supervisor from the town or not.

In 1929 he said he had a conversation with Mr. Loughran about election of supervisors in Denning and Shawangunk. He thought it was in the summer or fall before election. The witness said Mr. Loughran said he wanted Republican supervisors from the two towns, that the town of Denning had had a Democratic supervisor long enough and a lot of money had been spent in Denning and that he did not propose to spend any more money in that town than he had to.

Cross-examined by Mr. Flemming, the witness said that in 1928 and 1929 Denning did have a lot of work. He said he did not know whether the Hogeberg hill job was a town or county job. He knew he had been sent there to work. His first job in Denning was the Van Etten bridge job. He also worked at the Buttermilk Falls bridge job in Denning. Also at the State Camp bridge in the west part of the town. He said it was at the State Camp bridge that he had the conversation about closing the bridge jobs by November 15, 1929. That was the place of the talk about not spending any more money in Denning than was required.

Further questioned by Mr. Flemming Sheeley said that he did not recall whether it was on the Hogeberg hill job in Shawangunk that the conversation about spending money in Shawangunk took place but he thought so.

He said he had talked of the present matter in Mr. Ewig's office about a month or so. At that time he recalled his conversations with Loughran in regard to the spending of money and electing supervisors. He said he had also talked to Supervisor Terwilliger and Supervisor George about it. He talked to Terwilliger at the Terwilliger store and with George at Denning, where he had gone. He also talked of his 1929 conversations with Luther Dusinbere in Gardiner.

Mr. Ewig objected to the manner of Mr. Flemming questioning the witness as to his arrival on recollection of conversations which took place in 1929. There was a vote. The objection was sustained by a 17 to 15 vote.

The witness said his recollections had been refreshed by his talk with Terwilliger at the store. He said he could not say whether that talk was before or after the board of supervisors demanded Loughran's resignation. Supervisor George had not been present at his talk with Terwilliger or Dusinbere.

At that point Supervisor George moved that the board adjourn until 10 o'clock this morning and Supervisor Osterhoudt amended the motion that the board adjourn out of respect to the memory of former supervisor and chairman of the board, Frederick Davis, who had ably and efficiently represented the town of Marbletown in the board for many years. The amendment was accepted and the board adjourned.

ITCHY PIMPLES

Irritating pimples and ugly itching blotches are greatly benefited in one night when time-tested PETERSON'S OINTMENT is applied at bedtime. It's simple—inexpensive but amazingly effective. Get a 35c box of PETERSON'S from your druggist—and just try it. If the angry redness hasn't diminished by morning, if skin doesn't feel better, look better, if you are not truly amazed—druggists will refund your money. Use PETERSON'S OINTMENT also for eczema eruptions, sore, itching toes, cracks between toes. Stops itching torment in a few minutes. Try it.—Adv.

WALKER VALLEY.

Walker Valley, April 18.—All here are sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. L. Lambert and hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss Anna Kellner spent the week-end with her friend, Mrs. James Doyle and attended the shower for Miss Margie Carlin.

Mrs. J. Sabol and son, John, Mrs. H. Carlin and son, Junior, of Brooklyn, spent last week at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hansen and mother, Mrs. Larsen, of New York, visited their friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William McElhone of New Paltz, Mrs. C. O. Jansen, Mrs. J. R. Jansen and son, Dannie, visited Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jansen Sunday.

Mrs. A. Polhamus invited a few friends at her home on Friday evening in honor of her father, Mr. Mallay's, birthday.

Under the supervision of Mrs. James Doyle, Miss Edith Hauser and Agnes Carlon, Mrs. Hauser and Mrs. Depew on Saturday evening about 75 or 80 friends gathered at the firehouse to tender a community shower to Miss Margie Carlon in honor of her approaching marriage to Joseph Maguire of Brooklyn May 5.

Joan Greer, Alice Scott and Evelyn Woodrich have won the penmanship on the most improved writing of the Palmer method during the school period so far.

Mrs. Hoyt expressed great surprize on the work done by the lower grades in making the log cabin and furniture and also the work done on the home and furniture being finished.

The regular P.-T. A. meeting held on April [illegible] opened with singing "America" with Miss Ida Evans at the piano. Some of the older children remained for the next song. The reports showed the P.-T. A. supper was a great success, netting $41.25. The P.-T. A. voted to give one dollar each to the girl and boy who has the most tent caterpillars. Edwin Weed was leading with over 20 so far. A dance was discussed for April 20 at the firehouse. After the business period Mrs. C. J. Hoyt, who so kindly accepted the invitation and came to the P.-T. A. meeting, gave a very instructive address to both teachers and parents.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, April 18.—Emmett Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Reilly and Miss Virginia Finch attended a welcoming home party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rooney in Modena Saturday evening. Guests of honor were Alex Rooney and Conrad Giereish, who have recently returned from the conservation camp in Virginia. Others present were the Misses Alberta Decker, Edith Paltridge, Kathryn Ross, Florence Giereish, Edward Rhinehart, David Manse, Orville Coy, Donald Paltridge of Modena.

Mrs. Kate Terwilliger was a recent caller at the home of Mrs. Peter Barclay.

Miss Mary Tabor and mother have returned to their home after having spent several months in New York city.

Elmer Paltridge and son, Ellsworth, were callers in Modena on Saturday.

Tickets for the play to be given in Plattekill Grange hall Friday evening, April 20, may be purchased of Eugene Paltridge, this village.

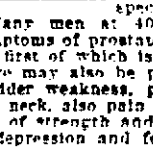
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Winters were callers in town Sunday.

Eugene Paltridge has been appointed one of the committee in charge of the Plattekill Grange membership drive which is being conducted this week.

Due to the fact that the Methodist Conference is in session there will be no church service yet this Sunday. However, the regular service will be resumed the following Sunday.

Eber Roades of Modena is doing some trucking for a party in town.

Charles Palmer was one of a number of candidates who were initiated in the first and second degrees of the Clintondale Grange, Monday evening.



Men Past 40

THE strain of modern living together with business worries, is bringing on physical changes which result in premature old age and broken health. Among these are high blood pressure, diseases of the heart, kidneys, bladder, prostate and other special organs.

Many men at 40 begin to experience symptoms of prostate gland trouble, one of the first of which is broken rest at night; there may also be pain and burning with bladder weakness, pains in back of head and neck, also pain in feet, legs and back, loss of strength and vitality, with periods of depression and fear.

If you are broken in health because of enlargement of the prostate gland, rupture, stricture, varicocele or from other causes, let us help you to enjoy life once more.

Send for a free copy of our book on the treatment of Prostatic troubles, or a book on Rupture. Know yourself! Our simple and safe treatment in these troubles is a comfort to such sufferers. State your age and describe your trouble when you write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Dept. 7, Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

More Than 187,000 Attended Major League Opening Games

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Major league baseball, which today settled down to the serious business of daily games, hopeful [illegible] glorious round of opening contests had set the keynote for the entire season.

Encouraged by fine weather, the fans poured through the turnstiles in greater numbers yesterday than in either of the past two season inaugurals although the aggregate attendance fell far short of the 1931 record turnout of 249,616. In all more than 187,000 attended the eight opening games.

Giants Draw 37,000

The world champion New York Giants attracted a crowd befitting their station, about 37,000, and the faithful were rewarded by seeing Carl Hubbell, last year's World Series hero, pitch four-hit ball to beat the Phillies 6 to 1. The rebuilt Red Sox were the leading attraction of the American League as they clashed with the champion Washington Senators. The crowd of 33,336 which filled Fenway Park was one of the best on record in Boston and it had plenty of thrills in an eleven inning struggle which Washington won 6 to 5.

Brooklyn Wins Before 30,000

Throngs of around 30,000 also appeared at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers inaugurated Casey Stengel's managerial reign by beating the Boston Braves 8-7, in an exciting slugfest, and at Cincinnati, where the first view of the rebuilt Reds proved mostly to be a view of Lonnie Warneke, Chicago's stellar right hander.

Pitching in mid-season form, Warneke missed a no-hit, no-run game by one throw as he blanked the Redlegs 6-0 and whiffed 13 batsmen. Cincinnati didn't get a hit until after one was out in the ninth when Adam Comorosky connected for a single. Chuck Klein, imported from Philadelphia to aid the Cubs' slugging, celebrated his debut with a home run.

Hubbell also hurled a masterful game for the Giants who showed they the same team of opportunists that won the world championship last year. They started out by scoring a run without a hit, then followed up with some timely batting in which Blondy Ryan stood out. Jimmy Wilson, Phils' manager, took Hubbell's shutout away with a homer in the seventh.

Yankees Go Down, 6-5

The Athletics staged a rally to defeat the highly touted Yankees 6-5 in a mixed-up game that saw 14 passes given out. A run behind in the ninth, the A's rallied to win when Bing Miller pasted a pinch single for the third hit of the inning.

With 21,000 fans looking on, Cleveland's Indians made eight hits good for a 5 to 2 victory over Rogers Hornsby's Browns as Earl Averill smacked in three tallies with a homer and a double. Mickey Cochrane and his Detroit Tigers showed a new brand of scrappiness as they converted six blows into an 8 to 3 triumph over Chicago.

Cards Get 13 Hits

The St. Louis Cardinals, with Dizzy Dean holding forth on the mound, pounded out the day's high total of 13 hits and trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-1. Behind Dean's six hit hurling, Ducky Medwick socked a homer and two singles and Pepper Martin hit a brace of doubles. Brooklyn and Boston also clouted the new National League ball effectively.

Homers by Dan Taylor and Hack Wilson contributed five runs to Brooklyn's early lead which lasted through a ninth inning rally by the Braves.

Nine Owners Listed With Derby Favorites

Louisville, Ky., April (AP)—With little more than two weeks remaining before the running of the sixteenth Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, nine thoroughbred owners have nominees conceded the best chances to win the $30,000 added stake May 5.

The constantly shifting derby odds indicate that turf owners with the strongest nominees are A. B. Gordon with Sir Thomas, Charles T. Fisher with Mata Hari, Norman W. Church with Riskulus, Mrs. John Hay Whitney with Singing Wood, and Mrs. I. D. Sloane with Cavalcade and Time Clock.

Slightly less favored in the public eye are the chances of Col. E. R. Bradley with Bazaar and Baker's Dozen, Alfred G. Vanderbilt with Discovery, Mrs. Payne Whitney with Black Buddy, and John Simonetti with Sgt. Byrne.

The list of ten favored owners compiled ten days ago was cut to the present nine with declaration that George D. Widener's nominees, Chicstraw, Kawagoe and Jack Low, would not start in the derby.

One of the better grade of derby dark horses, Mrs. Louise J. Hickman's Dusty Dawn, has been withdrawn from training and will not start in the historic classic. This brings the list of almost certain nonstarters to approximately a dozen, though every one of the 124 nominees remains eligible until entries are made the day before the race.

Sportsmen's Dinner Dance on April 25

In response to the insistent demand from the dance loving people of Kingston and vicinity, the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association will hold the second of its series of dinner dances Wednesday evening, April 25, at Golden Rule Inn. The first of these affairs held during the month of February proved an outstanding success from all standpoints and the advance demand for tickets for the coming dinner dance clearly indicates the popularity of these affairs.

Arrangements have been made with Proprietor Louis Kuntz by which Golden Rule Inn will be entirely reserved for the members and guests of the local association on the night of the dinner dance, and the special beef steak dinner which will be a feature of the evening will be under the personal charge of Mr. Kuntz. Dance music will be furnished by Roger Baer's full dance orchestra.

Senior E Quintet Wins Class Basketball Title At K. H. S.

Tuesday afternoon in Kingston High School gym, the Senior E quintet, champions of Division 2, annexed the Kingston High School class basketball crown, when they defeated End Frosh B, champions of Division 1, 36-16.

The diminutive Freshmen were the first to score by making a field. This, however, was the only time throughout the contest the Frosh were in the lead as the Seniors soon overcame this 2 point lead and were soon sinking the leather sphere through the loop from all angles of the court. The first quarter ended 4-2, the half 18-10, and the third quarter 30-14, all in favor of the upper classmen.

Bud Munson, one of the biggest of the giant Seniors, copped the scoring honors of the game by sinking 7 fields for 14 points. He was followed, in scoring, by Newell of the losers, who caged the leather sphere for 3 fields and 2 fouls to give him 8 points. Both teams played good ball but the height of the Seniors proved to be too much for the little Freshmen, who were unable to cope with this physical [illegible].

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Unbutton your ears, my friends, and listen to the extraordinary story of Francis A. Schmidt, about whom more will be heard this fall as head coach of football at Ohio State University.

At the outset it is a bedtime story. Schmidt, it seems, has a habit of hanging pad and pencil on a string tied to his bed so that he can jot down gridiron notes as they may occur to him between snoozes.

"Add a 150-watt bulb to the notebook and pencil and "Schmiddy" will be satisfied," writes Johnnie Porter, sports editor of the Fort Smith (Ark.) Southwest-times record. "I am speaking for one who occupied the same bed with the angular Kansan for a couple years when Francis was leading the Arkansas Razorbacks out of the athletics wilderness."

"Add a 150-watt bulb to the notebook and pencil and 'Schmiddy' will be satisfied", writes Johnnie Porter, sports editor of the Fort Smith (Ark.) Southwest-Times Record. "I am speaking for one who occupied the same bed with the angular Kansan for a couple years when Francis was leading the Arkansas Razorbacks out of the athletic wilderness."

A Coaching "Edison".

"That guy is the hardest working coach in the United States. Even the late Thomas A. Edison managed to get in more rest from his job than Schmidt, who was unhappy if he didn't work at least 18 hours a day. He slept with a pad and stub pencil under his pillow and as many as three or four times a night he snapped out of slumber, yanked the light cord and jotted down something which later was to cause rival coaches anxious moments.

"He reads every sports item that drifts his way and especially studies pictures of athletes in action.

"I remember on one occasion he saw a picture of a Texas high jumper clearing the bar at a fair height. 'Schmiddy' picked out a flaw in the jumper's form, told him and the Texas coach about it (after the conference meet was ended) and the jumper (I forgot his name) went on to win the national collegiate title later that spring."

A Mountain of Versatility.

"There are lots of things of interest about this enterprising fellow who coached a high school team in Kansas, Henry Kendall college (now Tulsa University), Arkansas and Texas Christian before stepping into the big league, but his versatility is amazing.

"He was a star baseball player and gridder at Nebraska, but never played basketball—the sport that brought him perhaps his greatest achievements as a coach. He was awarded an A.B. and LL.D. degree at Nebraska and later practiced law. While at Tulsa he played the 'lead' cornet in the National Shrine band. He plays a banjo, guitar, violin or piano with equal ease and sings quite well.

"As an architect he is above the average and is an expert in watch and clock repairing, as well as photography. The fellow who wrote the adage 'Jack of all trades and master of none' apparently never heard of Schmidt. He is good at all of 'em. Oh, yeah, he volunteered for service at the outbreak of the World War and emerged, after active service on the other side, as a captain of infantry.

"Maybe he won't win the Big Ten football title his first year up, but that 'pencil and pad' story is no myth and the word might as well be passed along to rival mentors who work under the able supervision of Major John L. Griffith. He'll keep 'em awake many nights trying to figure out ways of stopping his strategic moves."

They Sure Look Good, Says Terry As the Giants Outpoint Phillies

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, April 18 (AP) You could almost see the canary feathers sticking out of the corners of Bill Terry's mouth—he was so pleased with the world in general and his world champion Giants in particular.

"They had me worried a little in the south, but I'm afraid everything is going to be very much all right," he grinned. "They sure look good in there. This is quite a ball club."

The Giants had just finished picking up against the Phillies in the opening game of the season exactly where they left off last fall against the Washington Senators even though the caliber of opposition was scarcely the same.

Hubbell Pitches Beautifully

But there was Carl Hubbell anything but a champion this spring, pitching beautifully again, starting the season with what might have been a shutout if Jimmy Wilson, the new Philadelphia pilot, hadn't done what managers teach their players never to do. With the count two balls and no strikes, Jimmy slugged the next pitch into the stands for a home run, hardly cricket under the circumstances, but a homer nevertheless.

And Blondy Ryan, who couldn't buy a hit all spring, subbed for the ailing Hughey Critz at second, unperturbed by the fact that he had lost his shortstop job to marvelous Travis Jackson, got himself two fine hits, and once more the first man into, and the last man out of, every conference.

"Yet," said Terry, "the only two men I'm worried about on this club are Mel Ott and myself. We're not hitting. But speaking directly for one and on behalf of the other, I can say we will."

Experts Fooled

The experts had agreed that the Giants were due to get off badly lacking Critz, who has an infected foot, and Gus Mancuso, sturdy catcher. Terry admitted he was afraid the balance of the club might have been disturbed, but not any more. Mancuso, recovering from typhoid fever, has been working out every day and will be ready to catch, though not regularly, in a week. Critz will have to battle Ryan for the second base job when the Mississippi boy does get back.

"I won't break up a winning combination," Terry said. "Blondy is our second baseman until further notice."

All of which is all right with the personality kid from Lynn, Mass., the motto man whose private slogan is "keep plugging." He was helping himself to a big bottle of beer out of the ice box in the club house as Terry talked. A big glass glove covering a light in the ceiling slipped out of its socket and shattered on the floor with a resounding smash.

Ryan never missed a gulp.

"That's Wilson," he said, "hitting another homer."

Results Of Field Trials At The High School Yesterday

Tuesday afternoon in back of the high school, Coach Tom Kinsella, of the Kingston High track team, held the finals in the field events. The track trials were held last Friday afternoon.

The names of those who took the first three places with their distance in the various field events are as follows:

Broad Jump.

1 Don Hyatt, 19' 7½".
2 Al Styles, 18' 10".
3 Cliff Van Valkenburg, 18' 10".

The longest jump in the broad jump trials a year ago was 18' 2".

High Jump.

1 Don Clark.
2 Ira Saxe.
3 "Skeetch" Goffredi, 5' 4".

Coach Kinsella stopped the jumping at 5' 4" although Clark and Saxe were still easily topping the bar.

Shot Put.

1 Jake Marcus, 37' 7½".
2 Charley Boice, 36' 5½".
3 Ray Van Aken, 36' 2".

Discus.

1 Charley Boice, 97'.
2 Ray Van Aken, 85'.
3 Jake Marcus, 70'.

The pole vault was postponed as the three regular pole vaulters, Davis, Goffredi and Loughran, were unable to compete. "Skeetch" Goffredi was bothered by a charley-horse, Don Davis by sore back muscles, and Jack Loughran will be out of the competition for some time as he broke a bone in his foot, jumping last Friday and is now on crutches.

When Coach Kinsella was asked what he thought of the prospects of this year's team, he replied: "The team as a whole looks pretty good in the trials. They look particularly good in the broad jump as each of the three who placed in the finals, jumped considerably further than the winner in last year's trial jumps. Clark looks very good in the high jump and MacFadden promises to come through in the sprint. Styles is exceptionally fast for this time of the year and Cunningham is in better shape than he ever has been before. However, I would say that the team as a whole is not quite as good as the one of last year."

First Meet, Saturday.

The first meet of the season will be held Saturday at the New York Military Academy, Cornwall. This meet is a yearly feature and usually indicates just how the rest of the season will turn out.

The track team is planning to fill a bus to carry rooters to the meet. Anyone wanting to go on the bus should sign with Captain Cliff Van Valkenburg, Acting Manager Al MacCollam or Roger Mable.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

A meeting of the Koenig A. C. will be held tonight at the club, 121 Hasbrouck avenue, starting at 8 o'clock.

All members of these clubs are requested to be at the meetings.

Practice Game Sunday

The Kingston Senecas and Philcos are slated to meet in a practice duel Sunday morning at 10:30 at the Athletic Field. Mike Debrosky of the Senecas and Bill Schwab of the Philcos say their men will put up an exhibition well worth watching.

Success With Culoton

Those interested in the Downtown Twilight League believe the circuit should be a success, with City Judge Bernard A. "Bud" Culloton as the leader. "Bud" was elected president of the league last night by the managers of the six teams who gathered at the Koenig A. C. to form the loop. The Judge acted as president of the City League for four years and was due to act in the same capacity this season if the league organized.

A Perfect Game for Andy

Andy Varipapa crashed out a perfect game in an exhibition match with members of the Linter team at the Palace Recreation alleys in Albany last night, chalking up his 300 score in the first of two games with Mike Loftus. Loftus had a 189 first game and a second one of 181 while Varipapa followed up his perfect mark with a 226 performance.

In rolling two games each against six opponents, Varipapa had an average of 238½. He obtained 21 consecutive strikes and a total of 95 strikes or an average of nearly eight per game.

Just a "Week-end Golfer." Boston Veteran Still Strokes With Best

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on the careers and personalities of the eight members of America's 1934 Walker Cup golf team.

By BILL KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston (AP)—For many years golfers have been wondering how Francis Ouimet, captain and charter member of the American Walker Cup team that will engage the British at historic St. Andrews next month, finds the time to keep his marvelous game at its high and even pitch.

The answer is he doesn't—find the time, that is.

For Francis, despite his amazing competitive record, which dates back to 1913, when, at the tender age of 20, he astounded the world by defeating the supposedly invincible Britishers, Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, is only a week-end golfer.

He is the keyman in a bustling Boston brokerage house, and, except in Walker Cup years, there are seldom more than two weeks in every 52 when he can escape from his stock ticker and really play golf.

Prays For Fair Week-Ends.

Right now, while most of his 1934 teammates are burning up far-scattered courses almost daily as they prime themselves for the eighth of the series of international matches, Francis prays for fair week-ends so he may break in a new set of clubs he has assembled for his fourth cup quest to England.

Even before he gained the 1913 open Francis was always long and straight. He has never lost his accuracy from the tee to green, and the only department that ever fails him is his putting. [illegible] It always is in the spring. But a few days' practice generally makes [illegible].

FRANCIS OUIMET

Since Francis has been a member of every Walker Cup team, the only one on this year's aggregation [illegible] to boast such a service record, the St. Andrews layout is almost as familiar to him as his own Woodland course.

Little Success At St. Andrews.

Twice before Walker Cup matches have been played on that sacred turf. But it has not been the scene of a typical Ouimet triumph. In 1923 he halved his singles match with Roger Wethered and lost the foursome play with Jess Sweetser to Wethered and Cyril Tolley, 6 and 5. Three years later Wethered beat him 5 and 4 and teamed with Sir Ernest Holderness to trounce Francis and Jesse Guilford 4 and 3.

But Francis has by no means been a "bust" in Walker Cup play. His singles record for the entire series includes three victories, two halves and two defeats, and his foursome tally shows four wins and two losses. He led the last American team, which crushed the British eight matches to one at Brookline in 1932.

His Remarkable Record.

Twice Francis has held the national amateur championship, in 1914 and 1931. From 1913 to 1932 he missed qualifying only once, in 1926, when the list was cut from 32 to 16. Last year he was eliminated in the sectional tryouts. He was national amateur runner-up in 1920 and a semi-finalist in 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1927, 1929 and 1932.

Years ago business forced Francis to scratch the national open from his calendar, but he had set up a record that included the 1913 crown, a fifth place in 1914, 26th in 1915, 18th in 1919, a tie for 29th in 1923 and a second-place tie with Johnny Farrell in 1925, a stroke behind Jones and Willie MacFarlane.

Besides all that Francis has won the Massachusetts amateur title six times and is one of two amateurs, Guilford being the other, able to win his state open tourney, a high-class competition. Back in 1914 he won [illegible] the French amateur championship.

Downtown Twilight League To Open Season On May 8

Organization plans for the Downtown Twilight League were completed at the meeting in the Koenig A. C. rooms, 121 Hasbrouck avenue, Tuesday night.

Six teams had representatives at the session to sign for entry in the loop. The clubs and their managers are:

Rienzo A. C., C. Rienzo.
Senecas, Mike Debrosky.
Hercules, George Walker.
P. N. A., Walt Janarzek.
Kelly's Chocolateers, "Dolly" Tessio.
U. P. A., Joe Weiss.

Games will be played three nights a week, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, all at Hasbrouck Park.

The opening date was tentatively set as May 8. Plans for the inaugural will be made at another meeting to be called by the president.

Officers of the league were elected as follows:

City Judge Bernard A. Culloton, president.

Joe Kelly, secretary.

Joe Tomaseski, treasurer.

Official umpires were picked at the meeting, William "Pie" Murphy and Marty Keller being chosen.

Baseball Meeting.

Seventh Ward Democrats will hold a baseball meeting tonight at 7:15 o'clock at the club rooms, 177 Hunter street.

Possessions in Africa

The British empire includes more than twenty different colonies in Africa, having a total area of 3,858,000 square miles and a population of slightly over 50,000,000. France has only ten possessions in Africa, but their area is 4,300,000 square miles and the population between 30,000,000 and 37,000,000.

Woodchuck Fur Not Valuable

The woodchuck is of small importance economically and its fur is so coarse that it has little value. It is considered the least valuable of all our native fur-bearers and as such is seldom trapped. It is the one animal that we would miss the least if it disappeared entirely from our farm lands.

K. H. S. Baseball Team To Meet Alumni Today

This afternoon at the Athletic Field the Kingston High baseball team was to make its debut of 1934 against a team composed of alumni.

The members of the alumni team were brought together by Tony Debrosky, slugging outfielder of last year's team. Tony has announced that he will use Charles Tiano and Dick Whiston as the battery. The infield: Tony Debrosky, 1b; Bob Cullum, 2b, "Chips" Rhymer, 3b; "Zip" Zaccheo, ss. In the outfield was to be Paul Astolas, lf; Pres Knight, cf; Muller, rf. Johnny Quest will be in reserve.

Coach Kias did not announce his starting lineup, saying that he would probably use at least two teams, as this was a practice game. However, the consensus of opinion seemed to be that Emil Bock and George Zadany would be the varsity's starting battery, while Jack Linden would be on first, Johnny Murphy or "Birdy" Debrosky at second, Don Moore at short and either Charles Bock or "Birdy" Debrosky at third. The outfield was listed as Mac Tiano, Bob Ortale and Elmer Hopper.

Prospects Bright

When the coach, captain and manager of this year's team were asked yesterday what they thought of the prospects of the coming season, they gave the following answers:

Coach Kias: "It is pretty early in the season to make any predictions, but right now I think we have a team that is as good, if not better, than last year's team and that we have a fairly good chance to win the title."

Captain Jim Martin: "Good. Everybody is hitting good. It's really surprising. Everybody is practically hitting safely and now if we can only keep up our hitting we'll be all set. Coach thinks we can win the crown and with the support of the student body, we are bound to go places."

Manager Severyn Hasbrouck: "This year's baseball squad has been hampered by the graduation of several of last year's squad members. However, we still have our star pitcher, Jimmy "Lefty" Martin. We also have Jack Linden on first and Don Moore for second with Mac Tiano in the field. This leaves a few open spaces to be filled by last year's sub-varsity. In this group are such men as Zadony, Ortale, and Hopper. With the call for candidates many responded, so there should be plenty of material. We also have the services of a very efficient coach and his assistant coach so I think the season should, on the whole, be successful."

It might also be added that Port Jervis which won the DUSO crown last year, and Middletown, which also beat the locals last year, have four or five places on their varsities that must be filled by new men as has Newburgh.

Ellenville Saturday.

Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, Kingston will make its DUSO debut against Ellenville. Kingston is the favorite and should have an easy time taking over the boys from Ellenville.

When The Colonials Played Big Leaguers

With the opening of the local baseball season here Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds, when a practice game will be played between the newly organized Schryver A. C. and the Kaalich A. C., local fans are in hopes of seeing some fast baseball nines in action here this season.

Local fans were treated to fast games on their local diamonds a few years ago, when the Colonials represented Kingston, one of these games being between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Colonials on July 25, 1925.

In this game, which was won by the major league club, 5 to 4, the winners outhit the locals 9 to 8. "Cotton" Tierney, the Dodgers' third sacker, in the sixth inning slapped out a homer with two on, putting his team in the lead. Maury McDermoot for the locals also hit for the circuit.

Following is the box score of the game in 1925:

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, April 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter DuBois entertained Mr. DuBois's brother and family at their home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John [illegible] of Highland called at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Isaac Sutton, on Sunday afternoon.

The offering which was received on Easter Sunday by the Ladies' Aid amounted to $62.05. The committee wishes to thank all who responded so freely.

Mrs. Isaac Sutton and daughter will move this week in rooms with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell. The Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Gillan will occupy the rooms vacated by Mrs. Sutton and daughter.

The Rev. Vernon O. Nagel and LeVerne Powell were in Port Jervis on Monday.

Next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Rev. Floyd V. Nagel of Dyansburgh, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit here and his brother the Rev. Vernon Nagel, will preach in his church.

A number of men are busy working on the cross road passing Myron Anderson's place that connects the concrete road and the road from Modena. Several trucks are drawing gravel from Gerow Schoonmaker's bank. The town of Plattekill steam shovel is at the bank loading the trucks.

Mrs. Roscoe Strivings and sons of Highland Mills spent the week-end with her parents.

Constitutionality Of NRA Before Courts

Albany, N. Y., Apr. 18 (P).—The court of appeals today took under consideration arguments testing the constitutionality of the National Recovery Administration code and the New York state law relating to it.

The arguments were heard yesterday in an action brought by the Moving Picture Operators' Union, Local No. 306, of New York city, against 11 New York concerns connected with the motion picture industry.

The union seeks permanent injunction requiring the defendants to reengage 56 operators it contends were discharged after filing of the code and asks $1,000,000 damages.

The union already has a temporary injunction from the appellate division which requires the defendants to comply with the NRA regulations, forbids them requiring employes to join any company union or from employing fewer operators than were in motion picture theatre booths last August, or paying less than the minimum wage in force at that time.

The defendant motion picture concerns contend they are complying with the code but maintain it violates the constitution because Congress had no power to enact it and that it provides excessive punishment. They also question the legality of the New York state law relating to it.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, April 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boyce and daughter of Beacon and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bellinghoff and daughters of Newburgh were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stadt.

A Virginia baked ham supper will be served in the M. E. Church house at 6:30 Thursday evening. The price will be nominal and a large attendance is expected at this delicious supper, the tempting menu of which has been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis York and son of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Christopher Ricks of Kingston called on friends and relatives in this place Sunday.

A card party for the benefit of the Port Ewen Public Library will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Decker, Thursday evening.

Stratosphere Balloon

Major Kepner and Captain Stevens Talk It Over.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

WORK on the world's largest free balloon which will be used in the National Geographic Society-United States Army Air corps stratosphere flights is well under way at the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation's plant at Akron, Ohio. The balloon makers will use two-and-a-third acres of cotton fabric impregnated with rubber in constructing the bag, and it will have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

When the balloon rises from the earth, only partly inflated, it will be shaped like a gigantic exclamation point with the round gondola representing the period. As the gondola leaves the ground, the top of the bag will be 285 feet above it—approximately the height of a 27-story office building. When the bag becomes spherical in the thin air of the stratosphere, it will be large enough to enclose an 11-story building of normal height and of equal width.

The assent, in which it is hoped to reach the highest point to which it is practicable for a balloon to lift a man, will be made in the United States. The purpose of the flight is to clear problems of the upper air that are still puzzling to science. It is estimated that it will rise to a height of more than 15 miles above sea level.

The first ascent will be made in June by Capt. Albert W. Stevens, noted aerial observer and photographer of the army air corps, who conceived the project, and Maj. William Kepner, balloon expert of the army air corps. If this flight is successful, the same balloonists will make a second ascent in September, in order to check observations under similar conditions.

Scientists to Give Aid.

To advise in regard to the scientific plans and equipment, and to direct studies of the data collected, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, has formed a committee of outstanding American scientists. Its members are:

Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, director United States bureau of standards, chairman; Dr. F. V. Coville, United States Department of Agriculture; Gen. Oscar Westover, assistant chief, United States Army Air corps; Capt. R. S. Patton, director, United States coast and geodetic survey; Dr. W. F. G. Swann, Bartol Research foundation, Franklin Institute, Swarthmore, Pa.; Dr. Floyd K. Richtmyer, department of physics, Cornell university, and member research council, American Association for the Advancement of Science; Dr. Charles E. K. Mees, director research laboratory, Eastman Kodak company; Dr. Charles F. Marvin, chief of United States weather bureau, and Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, National Geographic society.

The huge balloon to be used in the ascents will have a gas capacity five times that of the bag in which Commander Settle established his 11-mile record last November; and nearly three-and-a-half times that of the Soviet balloon which in September rose nearly 12 miles above the earth.

The exact point at which the balloon will take to the air has not been selected, but it will probably be in the northern great plains region. Such a choice, it is pointed out, will give ample room for drift to the northeast, east, or southeast and a landing in open country, so that the bag can be salvaged.

The completed plans for the flights are due to the efforts of Captain Stevens, who has gathered data during the past eleven months directed toward the use in stratosphere flights of the largest balloon which it is practicable to construct, and an ascent to the highest point to which it is believed possible for man to rise in a gas bag, with hope of a safe landing. The mere attainment of altitude, however, is not a primary object of the ascents. It is desired to reach the greatest attainable height above the earth in order that conditions there can be observed.

Stevens Has Experience.

Captain Stevens has penetrated the lower levels of the stratosphere by airplane on numerous occasions and also has served as observer on a number of army balloon ascensions. During his high altitude flying he has collected much scientific data. In a flight over Dayton, Ohio, in October, 1928, he reached an altitude of 39,150 feet and obtained the only complete record of thermometer readings ever made in America, showing on the same day the "temperature gradient" in the region from the earth to the stratosphere. Other such records of temperatures, from the earth to an altitude of approximately 80,000 feet, is one of the objectives of the 1934 ascents. Such data will be extremely valuable in weather studies.

Another project of importance will be the trapping of samples of stratosphere air at several levels. These specimens will be analyzed and studied later in physical and chemical laboratories.

The preliminary "agenda" for scientific data to be collected during the ascent contains 14 other items varying from high level photography and the ascertainment of the electrical condition of the air at various levels, to cosmic ray studies and efforts to determine ozone concentration. The mysterious ozone layer of the upper air which some scientists assert is all that saves life on the earth from destruction by ultra-short light rays, is thought to lie far above the highest point that can be reached by a manned balloon. It is hoped, however, that evidences of an increasing ozone content of the air can be detected 15 miles up.

In order to house the many instruments and automatic recording devices that will be taken aloft, the balloon will have attached to it a spherical gondola of light metal, eight feet four inches, in diameter. This diameter is one foot and a third greater than that of the gondolas used by Professor Piccard and Commander Settle, and will provide a cubic capacity more than twice as great.

The instruments, many of them designed and modified by Captain Stevens as a result of trials during high altitude flights, will be largely automatic, leaving observer and pilot free to take up the many activities in the gondola that will require attention. A number of tiny cameras, using motion-picture film, will automatically and tirelessly "read" dials and clock faces simultaneously at frequent intervals.

Kepner's Fine Record.

Maj. William E. Kepner, who will pilot the stratosphere balloon, is one of the outstanding balloon pilots of the United States army. He served in the World war in the infantry and was decorated by both the American and French armies for exceptional services. He holds four medals: Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre with Palm, Distinguished Service Cross, and Good Conduct Medal, United States Marine corps. He has been an officer of the air corps since 1920, and holds the aeronautical ratings of airplane pilot, airplane observer, airship pilot and balloon pilot and observer.

He was winner of both the national and the international balloon races in 1928, receiving the Litchfield trophy and the King Albert of Belgium trophy. He was a classmate of Commander Rosendahl of the Los Angeles, and of Commander Settle, for three years at Lakehurst. Major Kepner holds a naval certificate as rigid airship pilot. He served on the Los Angeles as assistant navigator and received training from the German Zeppelin crew. He commanded the RS-1 semi-rigid airship in 1927-1928, and was the first to pilot an all metal airship in 1929.

Captain Stevens has made innumerable high altitude photographs, some of them, by the use of infra-red rays, showing mountain peaks more than 300 miles from the camera. Two of his photographs, of extraordinary interest to geographers and astronomers, are unique. One taken from a plane 21,000 feet over central Argentina is the first photograph ever made showing laterally the curvature of the earth. The other, made at an altitude of 26,000 feet over southern Maine, in August, 1932, is the only photograph which shows the advancing front of the moon's shadow on the earth during an eclipse of the sun.

Zuider Zee Now Yselmeer

When the Dutch minister of public works recently inaugurated the dam across the Zuider Zee between North Holland and Friesland, the name Zuider Zee ceased officially to exist and Holland gained in reclaimed land an area equal to her largest province, Gueldera. The dam transforms the old Dutch sea into a lake. It is 20 miles long. The dam begins at Wieringen island, where the ex-crown prince of Germany lived for some years in the blacksmith's house. The also famous island of Marken lies in the new lake, which is to be called "Yselmeer." The work begun in 1920 is finished, and plans are being made for a railway on the dam.

Long in Construction

To the cathedral located in Cologne, second highest building outside of the United States, goes the honor of being in the process of construction longer than any other structure in the world. It was started in 1248 but wasn't finished until 1880—632 years later.

MAKE BRITISH PLANE EQUAL TO AUTOGYRO

Remarkable Performance Is Reported in Tests.

London.—An attempt to equal the performance of the autogyro with an ordinary light monoplane is being made by a British company.

At a recent demonstration at Hanworth airdrome, one of several private flying fields surrounding London, a British Klemm low wing monoplane took off almost "on its tail," deliberately lost a race against a horse and made perfect landings at under 20 miles an hour.

Piloting a Swallow model, a two-seater, open cockpit machine powered with Pobjoy 80-85 horse power engine, E. G. Hordern, test pilot and formerly officer in the Royal air force, demonstrated the possibility of getting up and out of a small field after a forced landing.

The craft was up after a run of 25 yards, nosed up sharply and made a steep spiral climb. At 1,000 feet Hordern flattened out, stalled his engine and glided down, losing only about 7 feet a second, making a perfect landing at under 30 miles an hour.

In a race against an army horse ridden by an officer, Hordern, starting with a lead of 25 yards and maintaining level flight at around 2 feet, flew so slowly that the horse comfortably caught and passed him within a quarter mile. Another impressive demonstration was a takeoff at 40 miles an hour on half throttle.

The Klemm Swallow and Eagle are modifications of the original German Klemm machines built by the Leichtflugzeugbau Klemm company. They are being built under British air ministry regulations and of British material.

Floating Synagogue Is First to Ply Atlantic

New York.—The only synagogue plying the Atlantic was officially dedicated recently when a Scroll of Hebrew Law or "Torah" was ceremoniously presented to the Gdynia-America liner Kosciuszko at its Brooklyn pier. A cabin on board the steamer will hereafter be set aside for the permanent floating synagogue, unique in modern history.

Seven orthodox rabbis were among those officiating at the ceremonies accompanying the presentation. The ancient Jewish custom dictates that the Scroll be written in the synagogue where it is destined to be lodged. But since this is not practical in modern times, the first line of Genesis and the last line of Malachi were left blank, and at the ceremony an authorized scribe, Rev. David Levine, filled in these lines beginning and ending the Scroll.

Seven months were needed to write this Torah by hand in Palestine. It was inscribed with special ink on parchment prepared according to ancient Hebrew custom.

The Torah was presented to the steamer by the Kosciuszko Friends, an organization of Polish Jews who are habitual travelers between New York and Poland.

Man Stretches in Bed; Finds Neck Is Broken

Dallas, Texas.—L. W. De Young, Dallas, head of publicity and advertising for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company in Texas, sustained a broken neck from yawning and stretching bed.

De Young awoke, stretched himself with his head slightly to the right, and heard a slight snapping noise, after which he was unable to turn his head to the right past dead center. Several days later he had an X-ray taken.

"The sixth cervical vertebra fractured in two places," was the final verdict. The victim must wear a leather apparatus designed to hold his head and neck rigid for about four weeks before he will be able to wiggle his head again, attendants said.

Woman Cashier, 74, Calls Thugs' Bluff

Chicago.—Miss Catherine March is seventy-four years old. Her fighting weight is somewhere around 92 pounds.

Sitting in the cubby-hole where she works as cashier for the elevated lines, she was approached by two young gunmen.

"Open that door," said one, thrusting a revolver through the change aperture, "or we'll fill you full of lead." Miss March leaned back in her chair, folded her arms and shook her head.

"Go head," she invited. "I guess I've lived long enough anyway."

The robbers went away.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Melody in Spring". Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Lanny Ross and Ann Sothern are the main cogs in the wheel of this swell musical comedy that has all those essentials necessary for an entertaining picture. It seems that Charles Ruggles is a wealthy fellow, making his money from the manufacture of dog biscuits. He has a lovely daughter who has made the error of falling in love with a crooner against the wishes of her father. Of course the old boy doesn't stand a chance against the romantic singer, and he finally has to give up and let love take its course. Features of this show are the singing of Lanny Ross, the grand comedy of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, and the capable direction and dramatic skill of the cast.

Orpheum: "Design for Living" and "Big Time or Bust". One is an artist, the other an author. Both are in love with the same girl. She is in love with both of them. So they form a trio, each loving the other. That is Noel Coward's idea of a daring unconventional plot, and it is just that plus subtle direction. Frederic March, Gary Cooper, Miriam Hopkins and Edward Everett Horton head the cast. Mixed into the emotions of the players is a vein of comedy that helps keep the play from dragging. "Big Time or Bust" offers Regis Toomey and Gloria Shea in the second feature picture on the bill.

Broadway: "Constant Woman". Claire Windsor and Conrad Nagel are featured in this marriage drama that doesn't offer much originality of plot. It was released about a year ago and tells the story of Claire Windsor's desertion of Conrad Nagel, and how this effects the lives of both.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same
Orpheum: Same
Broadway: "Temptations Revue" on the stage, and "No More Women" on the screen. Headed by Charles King of "Broadway Melody" fame, the revue this week is the second feature vaudeville attraction to come to the Broadway theatre. A cast of 30 people and a chorus of well trained girls along with Howard Emerson's Columbia Broadcasting Orchestra, Betty Kean, Helen Arnold, Anita and Emanuel, and a number of other talented players completes the program. "No more Women" is the latest of the Edmund Lowe-Victor McLaglen co-starring pictures, and it has the same rowdy appeal as all the others. This time they are a couple of deep sea divers, always fighting each other over dames. Both are in love with the same girl, and this causes considerable misunderstanding. Full of raw humor and action, this show will appeal to excitement lovers. Sally Blane, Minna Gombell and Christian Rub are also members of the cast.

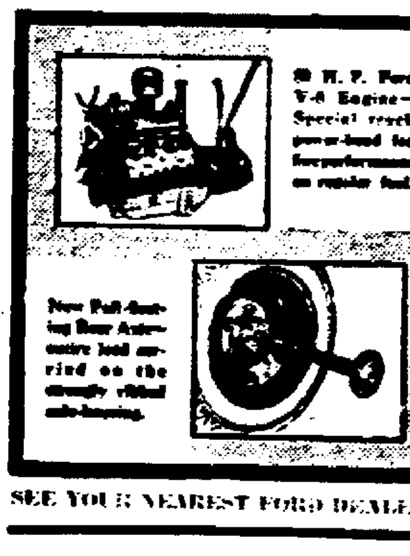
STAKE TRUCK 157-inch Wheelbase

This Truck can "take it" because it's All Truck!



80 H. P. Ford V-8 Engine—Special truck power-head for fine performance on regular fuel.
New Full-floating Rear Axle—entire load carried on the strongly ribbed axle-housing.

THE new Ford V-8 can "take it" with a heavy load in any weather because every part is a true, heavy-duty truck part. In designing this unit no compromise with passenger car manufacture has been allowed at any point in the chassis or body.

The new Ford truck has a special, heavy-duty, 8-cylinder truck engine. It develops 80 full horsepower. Dual down-draft carburetion has added to the V-type engine's inherent economy and power. New floating copper-lead connecting-rod bearings prevent bearing failure. These brand-new inserts do not pound out. The rear axle is full-floating. The driving pinion is straddle-mounted.
